

NIXON LABELED WORST

McGovern Says Mess Wide, Deep

... Agnew Fears Aggression

Washington (AP) — Sen. George McGovern called President Nixon the worst leader in U.S. history, and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday McGovern's policies would invite worldwide aggression.

McGovern's running mate, Sargent Shriver said that a renewed Republican administration would bring wage dictatorship.

While three of the major candidates campaigned, the fourth, President Nixon, remained in Washington prodding the Democratic-controlled Congress to enact his $250-billion spending limit. He has no campaign travel plans for the week.

'Mess Wide, Deep'

The Democratic presidential candidate began the day in Washington by asserting that the United States has never seen "official corruption as wide or as deep as the mess in Washington right now." He went on in Newark, N.J., to assert that Nixon has given the United States "the worst leadership in our national history."

McGovern sought to answer criticism that he has vacillated and damaged his credibility. He contended he has not ducked the hard issues of war, spending or tax reform, while Nixon has displayed "no constant principle except opportunism and political manipulation."

He again defended the decision to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton as his running mate, referring to the matter for the first time in a formal speech.

McGovern moreover renewed his challenge to Nixon to debate him.

Not Aiding—Aide

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, rejected any suggestions that Nixon is hiding during the campaign. He said the President is attending to official business while Congress is in session, and that he expects to have another news conference before November.

Agnew's forum in Washington was the same McGovern used earlier in the day — a meeting of editors of United Press International.

The vice president said that if the United States followed McGovern's defense and foreign programs, it would be "weak in will because of myopic isolation" and "weak in way, because of the ... concomitant program of cutting our national defense budget to a level which would invite aggression."

Agnew told the editors the late President John F. Kennedy was right when he said this country must have conventional defenses strong enough so that no president faced with aggression would have to choose between surrender or nuclear devastation.

And he said McGovern's policies would lead exactly to this dilemma, as well as inviting aggression against allies around the world.

Reckless, He Says

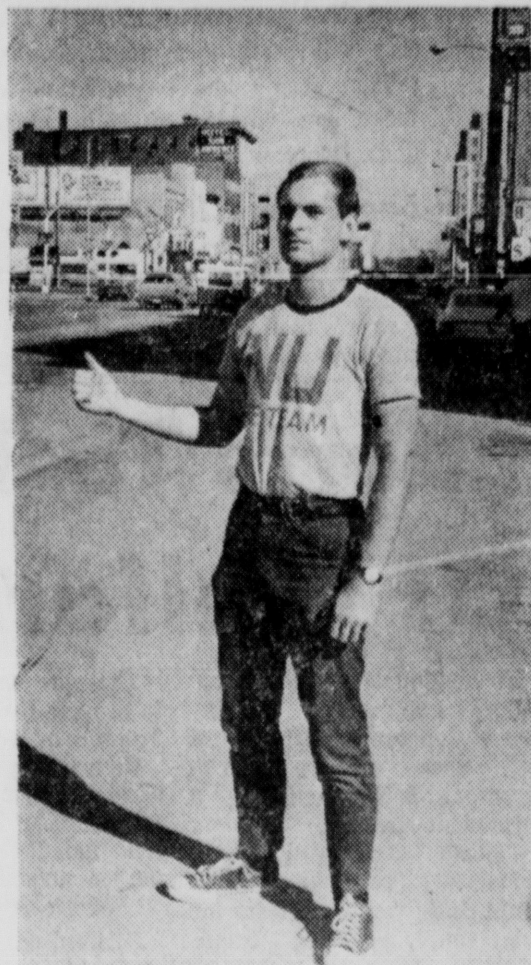

As for McGovern's remarks about corruption, Agnew termed them a reckless allegation inspired by "the prospect of defeat."

"It shows a lack of qualities a president should have," he said.

Shriver told an audience of labor union leaders in Minneapolis that in a second Nixon administration employers would use the Pay Board to knock down raises for workers: "You're going to have dictated wages — dictated from Washington."

Both in Minneapolis, where a tractor plant is being closed, and later in Rock Island, Ill., Shriver said too many employees are losing pension benefits, after years of work, because their companies fail or they are laid off. He called for legislation to insure such benefits and make them portable from job to job.

Shriver complained of what he called a Madison Avenue image — changing performed on Nixon and Agnew, saying "we want a president and vice president with one character, one face and one image."

'THUMBING' ... in the street is illegal in Lincoln.

PROPOSAL ... would okay hitchhiking from the curb.

No One At Public Hitchhike Hearing

... Vote Set Next Week

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A public hearing before the City Council Monday on an ordinance permitting hitchhiking so long as the hitchhiker stands on the curb of the road, attracted little attention from the public — no one appeared.

The proposed ordinance would allow hitchhiking so long as the person is "soliciting a ride off the traveled portion of any street or highway within the city limits."

Under present law, hitchhiking is banned in any form.

If the council approves the ordinance next Monday, it still would be illegal for motorists to obstruct traffic while stopping to pick up a rider.

City Attorney Dick Wood explained that drivers would have to stop in a parking or non-moving lane. When driving on a heavily traveled street in which all lanes of traffic are moving, the motorist would have to swing around the corner into a non-moving lane to pick up the hitchhiker.

The proposed ordinance would bring city law into conformance with state statute, Wood said.

Replying to a question from Councilwoman Helen Boosalis, Wood said the present law banning hitchhiking has been on the books for a number of years. Only recently have the police initiated a crackdown due to the increasing number of people illegally "thumbing rides."

Previously, police officers issued warning tickets to violators, but since August, on order from Police Chief Joe Carroll, tickets have been issued.

Several weeks ago, a number of young people protested the police crackdown and requested that the council consider legalizing hitchhiking.

FOGHORN PHANTOM FLUSTERS FAMILIES

Residents in the area of 52nd and Cleveland are being plagued by a young boy with a foghorn Lincoln police said Monday.

For the second day in a row an unidentified young man has terrorized the neighborhood with what police believe to be a compressed gas type horn used by boaters.

And for the second day in a row police have checked the area but were unable to locate the boy.

TRAIN PARKS IN PARKING LOT

After failing to stop at the end of the line in Fremont, Calif., a sleek new Bay Area Rapid Transit train Monday smashed into a sand barrier at 30 miles an hour and then dropped nose down into a parking lot below, injuring four passengers and a train attendant. The two-car train was part of the latest transit system in the U.S. and highly automated. The system, which opened three weeks ago, has an automatic device at the station, connected with the system's computerized controls in Oakland, that is supposed to tell the train to stop.

Agnew's Omaha Visit To End Candidate Dry Spell

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Vice President Spiro Agnew's Omaha visit Wednesday will break an eight-year dry spell for presidential or vice presidential appearances in Nebraska during a general election campaign.

Neither the Republican nor Democratic presidential or vice presidential nominees campaigned in Nebraska during the 1968 general election.

Only Curtis LeMay, the vice presidential nominee of George Wallace's American Party, made it to Nebraska during the autumn of 1968.

Four years earlier, three of the four major national nominees campaigned in the state.

Agnew will speak at a Republican rally at the Hilton Hotel ballroom in Omaha Wednesday. The rally begins at 5 p.m., and the vice president is scheduled to appear at about 5:30.

Agnew will stay in Omaha Wednesday night before moving on to Iowa and West Virginia Thursday.

In 1964, both members of the GOP national ticket — Barry Goldwater and William Miller — campaigned in Nebraska following their nominations at San Francisco.

Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, also campaigned in the state. President Lyndon Johnson did not.

In 1968, both Richard Nixon and Agnew bypassed Nebraska — although Nixon had campaigned here prior to the spring primary election.

Neither Humphrey nor his running mate, Edmund Muskie, included Nebraska in their post-convention campaign trips. Humphrey had visited the state in the spring.

Agnew's trip will mark his second visit to the state this year. He addressed a $100-a-plate Republican fundraising dinner in Omaha last June.

Coordinators of the Democratic presidential campaign in Nebraska are still hoping for a visit by either George McGovern or his running mate, Sargent Shriver.

"We haven't heard a thing yet," Lou Lamberty of Omaha said Monday.

McGovern campaigned extensively throughout the state prior to the May primary election.

$74.6 Million Approved By Senate For Defense

Washington (AP) — The Senate Monday passed, 70 to 5, a $74.6 billion defense appropriation bill after rejecting an amendment to bar use of any of the money for U.S. bombing in Indochina.

The stop-the-bombing amendment, offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., was defeated 55 to 26.

Approved by voice vote, after almost no debate, was an amendment by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., tying end-the-war language adopted by Congress in 1971 to the huge military money bill.

The 1971 language, part of a military procurement bill, urged President Nixon to establish a date for withdrawal of all U.S. military forces from Indochina contingent on Hanoi's release of American prisoners of war and an accounting of the missing in action.

It also urged the President to negotiate with North Vietnam for a cease-fire and for an agreement phasing in withdrawal of U.S. forces with the release of prisoners.

Mathias' amendment provided that none of the money in the defense-appropriation bill could be expended for purpose not in accordance with any legal provisions of the 1971 act.

The defense-appropriations bill includes $640.1 million for continued development of the Safeguard antiballistic-missile system at Grand Forks, N.D., $299 million for continued work on a third nuclear powered aircraft carrier, $807.9 million for the new Trident long-range missile submarines, $732.7 million for the Navy's F-14A Tomcat fighter plane, and $444.5 for the continued development of the B1 strategic bomber.

Pedestrian Dies When Hit By Car East Of Emerald

An unidentified man was killed late Monday night in a car-pedestrian accident just east of Emerald, according to the Nebraska State Patrol.

The patrol said the man was walking eastbound along the highway when he was struck by a car driven by Michelle Seefeld, of Emerald.

A witness at the scene said the man was dragged along the roadway for a distance before he fell free of the vehicle.

Mrs. Seefeld, a nurse at Lincoln General Hospital, was on her way to work at the time of the accident.

Officials said the man was carrying two conflicting forms of identification and were unable to determine his name as of early Tuesday morning.

Danes Vote 2 To 1 To Join Euromart

Copenhagen (AP) — Danes dispelled fears of a major hitch in Common Market expansion Monday by voting nearly 2 to 1 in favor of joining the European Economic Community.

Not all opponents of market membership took the defeat calmly. Bands of young demonstrators roamed the streets in Copenhagen and burned flags on the steps of Parliament.

Anonymous telephoned bomb threats were made against the prime minister's home and Copenhagen's radio and television centers. No bombs were found.

Sigurd Oemann, whose Socialist People's Party spearheaded the anti-EEC campaign, said Denmark faced "increased political polarization" because of the vote.

The final tally was 1,950,000 for and 1,124,000 against, or a margin of 57% to 32.9%. The voter turnout of 89.9% was an all-time record for this small Scandinavian nation.

Danish farmers voted solidly, as expected, for the Common Market, which will help their exports. The surprise of the election was that antimarket forces did not gain a majority even in their supposed stronghold, metropolitan Copenhagen.

Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag's government, which negotiated Denmark's entry into the market, preached economic hardship, stern austerity policies and devaluation of the kroner if the vote went against joining.

NU Charges Above Median In Survey

Resident tuition and fee charges at the University of Nebraska this fall are higher than the median charges for 98 multi-campus institutions surveyed by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

At the same time, however, NU's yearly charges are lower than the median for 24 midwestern states in which Nebraska was grouped by the NASULGC.

The fees charged nonresident students are lower than the medians in both instances. Nebraska's student charges for resident students, $534, compares with a nationwide median of $517.50 and a midwestern median of $95. NU's nonresident student charges of $1,260 compares with a nationwide median of $1,319.50 and a midwestern median of $1,510.

The figures reflect the tuition and fees charged students for normal academic year during 1972-73 as listed in the survey of NASULGC member institutions.

The organization said in a report made public this week in Washington that tuition and fees for resident students at all the institutions surveyed "increased less this fall than (they) have for any fall since 1968."

The median charge for residents increased from $493.50 in 1971-72 to $517.50, a 4.9% boost. The average annual increase since 1964-65 is 9.4%.

The average annual increase for nonresidents has been 14.4%. The one-year increase is 4.7% this year, compared with a 17% increase nationally in 1971.

Last year's median charge for nonresidents was $126 nationwide, exactly the charge for NU's nonresidents both this year and last.

Nebraska students did not have a tuition increase this fall.

The survey showed that 61 of the 98 institutions responding increased tuition and fees this fall.

Over the last eight years, the NASULGC says, resident student charges have increased nationwide some 75% and nonresident charges have increased 115%.

Copenhagen — Denmark gave a resounding "yes" to membership in the European Common Market in a national referendum Monday. The favorable vote will bring this small country with its 5-million people into economic union with the 240-million citizens of eight other Western nations. (More on Page 1.)

Poppy Ban Curtails Income

Atlihasar, Turkey — To the impoverished Turkish villagers of the central Anatolian highlands, the poppy is the staff of life, but its greatest cash value has been in the form of raw opium from which most of the heroin used in the United States is made. As the result of the Turkish ban on poppy growing, put into effect under strong American persuasion, he natives' illegal trade in opium is over, they say, and their incomes sharply curtailed.

Nixon, Gromyko Go To Camp

Washington — In a rare gesture of personal diplomacy, President Nixon invited Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to spend the night at Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland. The invitation, which replaced a working dinner originally scheduled for the White House, came after a morning

White House conference in which the two officials discussed the Soviet-American trade agreement and other bilateral issues, according to an administration source.

Gunmen Must Die

Manila — The Philippine government decreed the death penalty for those who kill with firearms that they are not authorized to possess under martial law. President Ferdinand Marcos also decreed lesser penalties of 20 years to life imprisonment for killings not covered by firearms restrictions.

Defense Money Bill Passed

Washington —The Senate passed a $76 billion defense appropriations bill, 70 to 5, after decisively rejecting a proposal to cut off funds for further bombing in Indochina. (More on Page 1.)

Pledge Depends On Vote

Washington — Key administration officials warned that the pledge not to raise taxes next year might depend on congressional enactment of a $250-billion spending ceiling this year.

McGovern Attacks Nixon

New York — Responding to political polls indicating he suffers from a credibility gap with voters, Sen. George McGovern couped a brief defense of his own "veracity" with

GOP To Mail Political Letters

Washington — A national campaign to influence a presidential election by political letters mailed to individual voters is being put into effect by the Committee To Re-Elect the President. Some 12 million letters praising President Nixon's record and attacking Sen. George McGovern are the opening wave of a political effort that is tentatively budgeted at $6 million, but could easily run higher. Letters will be followed by phone calls and telegrams.

Efforts To Test Reform Of Welfare Opposed

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration Monday strongly opposed efforts to test out various welfare reform proposals before enacting a permanent plan.

Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson said the tests would delay welfare reform for five years, causing tragic results.

Nevertheless, the Senate appeared headed toward endorsing just such a pilot proposal, using it as a method to shelve the bigger controversy over which reform plan to adopt.

The vote on the amendment to provide for tests is expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

Richardson explained the administration's opposition in a letter to Sen. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., a sponsor of the test amendment.

Maybe Even Six

Richardson wrote that it would take a year to plan and implement the tests, two years to run them, a year to compile the data and formulate a new legislative proposal, and at least a year and perhaps two for Congress to act.

Meanwhile, he said, there would be "the following tragic results" from further delays: —Exploding costs and caseloads would continue.

—Inadequate work requirements would be perpetuated.

—There would continue to be widely varying standards and administrative practices in the states.

—"The inevitable waning of public confidence would encourage a trend, already evident in the past year, to make the truly needy the scapegoats of a failing system."

Tests Already Done

Richardson said his department already has conducted tests of the proposed aid for the working poor, one of the challenged features of President Nixon's Family Assistance plan.

"These tests have yielded substantial proof that families do not reduce their earnings when they receive wage supplementation," he declared.

However, informal counts indicated that neither the family assistance plan nor its two rivals—a tough workfare plan devised in the Senate Finance Committee and a liberalized family assistance plan pushed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn. — could command the votes needed to pass the Senate.

The first Senate vote on the issue will come on the Ribicoff proposal, which the Connecticut senator offered Monday as a substitute for the Roth amendment.

Switzerland Keeps Cavalry

©The New York Times

London Times Dispatch Geneva — The Swiss National Council (lower house) Monday voted to retain the national cavalry, which the government had intended to replace by armored troops.

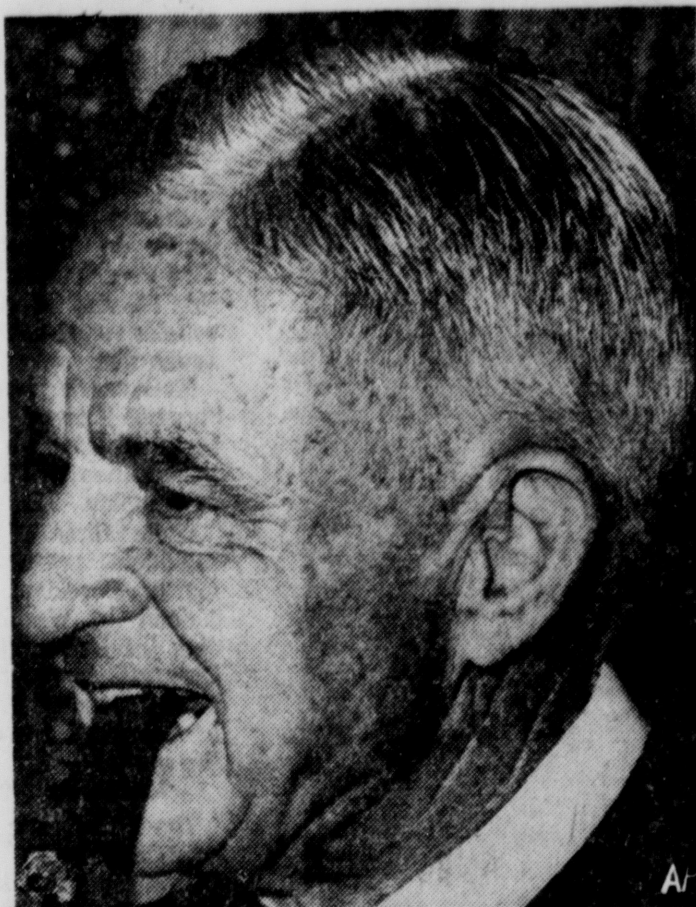

After overwhelmingly voting against disbanding the 3,000 man force, the deputies agreed to a proposal reducing the number of cavalrymen to 2,000.

Anti-Travel Bill Is Killed

Washington (UPI) — The House killed a bill Monday that would provide stiff penalties for Americans who travel to North Vietnam or any nation in armed conflict with the United States without presidential authorization.

Bowing to protests from liberals that the bill was unconstitutional, the House rejected the measure under rules requiring a two-thirds majority for passage. The vote was 229 to 141 for adoption, just 18 short of the margin needed.

McCain . . . denies illegal Navy air strikes.

Adm. McCain Denies Illegal Strikes By Navy

Washington — Adm. John S. McCain Jr., commander of U.S. Pacific forces, denied Monday that Navy pilots made unauthorized air strikes against North Vietnam. However, he refused to say whether enemy radar tracking was considered justification for a U.S. strike.

"Under the rules of engagement they couldn't strike back unless the enemy did something first," McCain told newsmen after a meeting with a group of House members.

But when he was asked if the enemy action could include "radar lock-in" on an American plane an aide said "I wouldn't get into that" and McCain said: "I won't go behind the statement I made to you."

It was McCain's first public comment since his closed-door testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee last week on disputed allegations that Navy pilots — not just Air Force pilots under Gen. John D. Lavelle — made unauthorized strikes.

Under President Nixon's protective reaction policy in force at the time U.S. air strikes were permitted only in

Bullets Riddle Secret Agent

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — Guerrilla gunmen ambushed a British secret agent in a Roman Catholic sector of Belfast Monday and killed him with a burst of automatic rifle fire that riddled the delivery truck he was driving.

A woman agent in the vehicle was unhurt.

The British army said it was the first death among but 50 undercover operators working in plain-clothes in highly critical sectors of Northern Ireland's capital.

Their mission is mainly to gather information.

'Shocking' Instances Found Of Big Business Tax Fraud

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters of the Internal Revenue Service said Monday that IRS has discovered "shocking" instances of fraud and tax evasion schemes by giant corporations.

Walters told a meeting of tax executives that a team-audit program revealed schemes such as kickbacks and illegal payoffs by large corporations to evade tax payments.

The IRS is developing greater alertness to such schemes, Walters said. The agency is recommending criminal prosecution and tax penalties where applicable.

'Unbelievable'

"It is unbelievable that large, publicly held corporations engage in such schemes. Yet they do. This is flouting of the law—deliberate, willful attempts to avoid and evade taxes with full knowledge of both what should be done and the result of what is done."

The commissioner said one company, knowing that reserves for self-insurance are not tax deductible, set up an intricate scheme to mislead revenue agents.

Another corporation, Walters said, "immediately upon agreeing to a deficiency, filed overstated claims for refunds. What is astounding is that the taxpayer admitted knowledge of the overstatement but indicated lack of concern because of the certainty that the claims would be audited."

62 Million, Plus Penalty

Walters said an examination of that corporation's accounts resulted in a recommendation for an additional 62 million in tax, plus penalties. It also resulted in consideration of prosecution for the filing of a false claim.

The commissioner blamed both tax departments and industrial management for irresponsible practices.

"Voluntary compliances is the foundation of our tax system," he said. "Our tax system is at the basis of our governmental system and, therefore, our way of life. We cannot afford any fouling of the system."

Soviets May Import Grain In 1973 Even If Crop Good

Washington (UPI) — The Soviet Union may need heavy grain imports again next year — even if it harvests a comparatively good 1973 crop — because of a major policy shift toward satisfying the demand of Russian consumers for meat.

That forecast came Monday in a special Agriculture Department report on the 1972 Soviet crop failure which led to recent massive purchases of grain from the United States and other countries, and of prospects for additional sales to Russia.

The report said the volume of Soviet buying this year shows Russian officials intend to meet their goals for increased livestock production by 1975, even if it means large imports. U.S. estimates of Russian needs for 1973 indicate they cannot be met without imports even if Soviet production next year recovers sharply from the 1972 failure.

"For the years beyond 1973, if current livestock goals are retained and increased further after 1975, it now appears the U.S.S.R. will be a major importer of grain, perhaps over the next three to five years," the report said.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., who led an Illinois delegation which conferred with Soviet farm officials last week, agreed with that assessment.

Poodle's Loyalty, Affection Banishes Widow's Loneliness

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "Why don't you urge more older people to have a dog? I'm 76, lost my husband two years ago and live in the country. Can't drive nor hold a job due to my health and have just enough money to get by. I was getting blue and lonely when my daughter gave me a female poodle. I protested at first, but Aimee Sue has become the best companion I could have. She follows me around, lets me know when a car drives in or the mailman comes. She knows exactly what I'm thinking, radiates affection, and almost talks. Someone asked why I didn't ask a friend to move in with me and I said I already had one — who never criticizes and loves me more than anything in the world."

Answer: — Thanks for writing. Many lonely elders could doubtless enlarge their happiness and banish loneliness via a lovable pooch.

Question: — "I rarely get a bum check at my haberdashery. But last week an old man came in and gave me a check for a suit. All the identification he happened to have with him was his Social Security card, so I wrote down the number. The check bounced and I called the Social Security office to get help in tracing the deadbeat. But they wouldn't help me. Why not?"

Answer: — According to the law, these records are confidential and officials are not allowed to release Social Security information. Retailers should know that Social Security cards are not intended for check cashing and related purposes.

Question: — "I'm moving in with my daughter and her husband, since I need a little help in dressing and bathing due to severe arthritis. I could move to a residence for the aged, but my darling daughter insists I make my home with them. What suggestions have you for a mother who goes to live with one of her children?"

Answer: — Probably the best suggestion is to make yourself unobtrusive. Give them lots of privacy, and go to your room quietly at those times when they might want to talk and be alone. Build a social life of your own so they won't feel they have to entertain you. Keep yourself neat and attractive. Pay compliments. And never criticize!

Dynamite Blasts Destroy Radio Station Tower

Cedartown, Ga. (AP) — Two dynamite explosions seconds apart destroyed the 250-foot tower of radio station WGAA in this west Georgia town, putting the station out of service, police said.

A police spokesman said remnants of two dynamite charges were found at the base of the tower. He said the two explosions occurred from five to seven seconds apart about 4:30 a.m., before regular broadcast hours. No one was reported injured.

The general manager of WGAA, Bob Bond, said he knew of no reason why anyone would want to damage the station. Attempts were being made to get the station back on the air by setting up a temporary antenna.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Last month, Lincoln police announced inauguration of a new program for hit-and-run drivers. The police now are issuing a sticker to identify damaged cars. Damaged cars without a sticker will be stopped by police for investigative purposes.

We have long thought it would be wonderful if something could be done about hit-and-run drivers and maybe this will help. We doubt that the program will be a total success simply because it will at times be impossible to ascertain exactly what might have happened in the case of small accidents.

Is there a driver on the road today who has not experienced the frustration of a bent fender, a dented bumper or a caved-in door without knowledge of the responsible party?

The irritation is seldom a moving vehicle accident, but rather, an accident in which your car is hit while you have it parked. It is only upon your return or after you have gotten home that you notice that someone has clipped you.

It has always amazed us that people will hit a car and never admit it. Perhaps they fail to report the damage in an effort to keep their car insurance premiums down but they are doing an injustice to others.

It is easy these days to do $50 to $100 worth of damage to the body of a car. It doesn't take much of a dent to get to those kinds of figures and you are left holding the bag with your $50 or $100 deductible insurance.

If the offending party would make himself known, his insurance would cover your loss. But if the offender had too many such accidents, he would soon find his premiums going up. Therefore, if the offender can get away unnoticed, he does so.

The new police department program may help the situation by putting on notice of possible prosecution those drivers who are inclined to leave the scene of an accident. Drivers ought to know that it doesn't take much damage to create a substantial repair bill.

Those who drive away from small accidents without reporting them or leaving their names and addresses are cheating the parties they have hit. They are being dishonest and now they are running a greater risk of being found and prosecuted for leaving the scene of an accident.

We wish the police all the success in the world on clamping down on car owners with unexplained damage to their vehicles. The effort will experience some difficulties because it will often be hard to determine if the damage was caused by the owner of the vehicle in question or by another unknown driver.

On the same subject, it might be noted that several of the serious accidents of recent days, involving fatalities have had nothing to do with speed. Rather, the accidents were related to driving mistakes and/or mechanical failure of one kind or another of the vehicle involved.

The latest triple fatality involved a tire blowout and a resulting lack of control of the vehicle. Just prior to that, a person was killed in an accident in which one car was in the wrong lane and hit a truck head-on.

Prior to that, a person was killed when he went through a stop sign on a county road. And so it goes — one life after another being snuffed out until the highway death toll for each year hits and exceeds that for the preceding period.

Gov. J. J. Exon has embarked upon a new campaign for highway safety and deserves the cooperation of the people of the state in his efforts but such a program by now provokes far more pessimism than optimism.

Governors and others have tried in the past to cut down the highway toll but without avail. Human error simply cannot be eliminated, it seems, and that still remains a primary cause of most accidents.

BOB CONSIDINE

Rather Be Anything Than Be President

NEW YORK — Two small-town boys, one from Yorba Linda, Calif., and the other from Avon, S.D., will spend about $50,000,000 between now and November 7 in an attempt to be elected president of the United States. The boy from Yorba Linda will go for about $35,000,000, though the pollsters say he could win easily if he just stood in bed (Lincoln's). The poor but honest lad from Avon, a place so small that not even the other Avon ever calls, will blow about $15,000,000 — which will put his party in debt for the next ten or 12 years.

Somebody should send them a copy of the Lithopinion, house organ of the Lithographers of America. The current issue picks up some quotes about the presidency from a number of men who made the grade. It has to be a lousy job:

"No man will ever bring out of the presidency the reputation which carried him into it... The office brings nothing but increasing drudgery and daily loss of friends... I have no ambition to govern men. It is a painful and thankless office." — Thomas Jefferson.

President John Tyler ordered this stone placed over the grave of his favorite horse: "Here lies the body of my good horse 'The General.' For 20 years he bore me... and in all that time never made a blunder. Would that his master could say the same."

Retiring President James Buchanan, on welcoming A. Lincoln on the steps of the White House, March 4, 1861: "Sir, if you are as happy about entering this mansion as I am about leaving it, you're the happiest man in the world."

"A prime minister must keep himself in favor of the majority... A president need only keep alive... I never dreamed such loneliness and desolation of heart possible." — Woodrow Wilson.

"I can do almost anything in the goldfish bowl of the president's life, but I'll be hanged if I can say my prayers in it." — FDR.

"Being president is like riding a tiger. A man has to keep on riding or get swallowed... The president hears a hundred voices telling him he is the greatest. He must listen carefully indeed to hear the one voice tell him he is not." — Harry S. Truman.

"Boy," President Johnson once said to me in his office, looking like John Wayne telling off Geronimo, "you just go over there to that AP and that UPI ticker and somebody will be saying six mean things about me."

The boy from Yorba Linda, Richard Nixon, was turned down when he applied for appointment as an FBI agent. A bit later, his application to join the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell was pigeonholed — leading him to remark, much later, "If they had given me a job, I'm sure I would have been still there today as a corporation lawyer, instead of president."

After his narrow loss to John F. Kennedy in the 1960 presidential race and his whopping defeat by Pat Brown in the California gubernatorial contest two years later, Nixon settled down comfortably as a partner in the Wall Street law firm of Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Mitchell, etc. etc. A reporter asked him if he'd ever run again. Nixon burst out laughing.

"I say categorically that I have no contemplation at all of being a candidate for anything in 1964, 1966, 1968 or 1972... Anybody who thinks I could be a candidate for anything in any year is off his rocker."

The boy from Avon, George McGovern, backs that Nixon statement 1,000 per cent.

Labor Party Seeks New Role

Recently a column on the Star editorial page by conservative writer Kevin Phillips dealt with the "backlash of empire," a British phenomenon which Phillips believes is responsible for deeply held racial and economic prejudices which are curiously out of step with the politics of the new age.

If there are those prominent in British life who fondly wish for a return to the Imperial past, as Phillips indirectly suggests, they do not hold positions of influence in the out-of-power Labor Party now in convention at Blackpool.

Labor's executive committee, drawing up policy recommendations for consideration by the entire convention, approved a resolution setting tough terms if Britain is to continue as a member of the European Common Market under a Labor government. This served to emphasize the switch in Labor's position and the anti-Common Market attitudes prevalent across the broad spectrum of British life today.

But that was not nearly as surprising or provocative as a recommended policy decision that would shake the foundations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Although a party spokesman denied that Labor leaders would seek a British pullout from NATO, the executive committee did agree on a resolution stating the party's opposition to "any British defense policy which is based on the use or the threatened use of nuclear weapons either by this country or by its allies" and demanding "the removal of all nuclear bases in this country."

The loss of nuclear bases in Britain might not be a strategic disaster for the Western bloc, but the prospect — since Labor might not be out of power for long — does suggest that the West's defense plans need a thorough reshuffling.

The thrust of President Nixon's foreign policy — and even more so McGovern's — is a lowering of the American profile not only in the Pacific but around the world and a corresponding assumption of more of the defense burden by U.S. allies. The implications of the long-range view of Labor's leadership is unsettling in a world still imperiled by opposing political systems.

Eagleton Doubts Impact

Appearing at a political rally south of Omaha Sunday, Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri said he believes that his ouster from the Democratic ticket back in July will not be an important factor in the upcoming presidential election.

Eagleton admitted again that he fought to stay on but in the end submitted to McGovern's "very mature political judgment" that he should withdraw so that the issues would stay in focus. And time being a good healer, people have forgotten the Eagleton affair because they have a clear-cut choice between two vastly different tickets, the Missourian suggested.

We suspect that Eagleton is right. Many of those people who were angered by the squalid talk about Eagleton's medical history and what they considered to be treatment by the McGovern camp unfair to the vice presidential nominee have settled on better reasons for either supporting or abandoning the Democratic ticket. And if some still point to the statement of "one thousand percent" support as an example of McGovern's lack of credibility, there have been other statements that leave the voters wondering.

What has happened in the past ten weeks — although people in Missouri might not have forgotten so quickly — is that the McGovern-Shriver ticket is the accepted political reality of the day. The election won't be won or lost on the Eagleton incident alone.

And it wouldn't have been won or lost on that issue had it turned out the other way and Eagleton had remained on the ticket. The shock waves caused by the senator's disclosure of his past medical problems would have subsided because, in our opinion, most voters would have made mature judgments on the issue. Time would have been a good healer in that circumstance, too.

Feeling Of Something Important From Paris; Kissinger Role Includes Two-Way Persuasion

BOSTON — Outside of the small circle officially involved, none of us can really be informed on the state of the talks between Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho. But among some people who have thought about Vietnam for years, there is now a feeling — a tingling sensation, as one put it — that something just could happen in Paris.

After all the disappointments of past years, any hope of a negotiated end to the war must be shadowed by skepticism. Doubts are strengthened by the knowledge that President Nixon will use the very fact of the talks going on for political purposes. It is no accident that the White House announced the time of Kissinger's return from the latest meeting, so cameras could be there to record his arrival.

"On the basis of experience," one man long concerned with the Vietnam problem said, "you have to think that any sign of possible success in the negotiations is a combination of false hopes and game-playing by Nixon and Kissinger." The North Vietnamese have publicly discounted talk of progress in Paris, and sources close to them still speak of election-year American politics.

On the other hand, one has to ask why Hanoi is playing the game, if that is all it is. Le Duc Tho does not do things by accident: Why are he and his colleagues helping to re-elect Richard Nixon?

Western observers who have been in North Vietnam recently report no slackening in the expressed determination to bear the burdens of the war, including American bombing, indefinitely if necessary. Nor is there any convincing sign of a crippled capacity to fight. Richard Dugman of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch saw long lines of trucks bearing weapons and supplies between Haiphong and Hanoi.

But a continuing war effort would not be inconsistent with a decision by the North Vietnamese leaders to try seriously for a settlement. They may have a different perception now of American political and psychological realities. They may be feeling more pressure from the constituencies that matter to them — in Moscow and Peking, French officials, who have as good contacts as anyone with the two sides in the peace talks, are expressing a high degree of optimism.

What, then, could be the framework of a settlement? Even to explore that question in a speculative way is to realize the immense intellectual difficulties involved in trying to compromise the positions of two sides so deeply opposed in political objectives, fears and pride.

In President Nixon's declared view, the only appropriate way to change the legitimate government in Saigon is by elections. The United States will not join in imposing a coalition government because that could be a cover for communist control and a "bloodbath." After an internationally supervised cease-fire and the return of prisoners, the U.S. would withdraw all its forces and leave a political settlement to the Vietnamese.

Hanoi, for its part, rejects elections managed by the Saigon administration. It fears that its own people would be the victims of a bloodbath if left to the control of President Nguyen Van Thieu and his police. It wants the United States to agree to a coalition by way of final settlement before leaving, so the Americans will have no excuse for returning — specifically for resuming the bombing — if unwelcome political change occurs in South Vietnam.

In general terms, one can begin to imagine ways of closing those wide differences. Thieu could resign a much longer time before elections than the one month the U.S. has offered, but leaving the Saigon administration otherwise intact. The political future could be fudged by leaving each side in control of its own areas, offering some form of guarantees for physical safety and protection from arrest on both sides and having elections not under the present Thieu constitution but for a constituent assembly to draft a new one.

The trouble is that stating such ideas exposes the real difficulties. For example, would the United States continue to supply massive military assistance to a Saigon government after a cease-fire? Would President Nixon accept

By BONNIE HIBLER

Unadilla, Nebraska

Your editorial, "Record Hard to Criticize," (Star, Sept. 29) misinterprets and misrepresents the sense of my criticisms of Lancaster County Election Commissioner Bill Davidson on the following points:

1. Generally, I believe Mr. Davidson has done a commendable job — and I have told him so on the entire first page and last paragraph of the letter which I addressed to him. My comments, then, should be taken in the context of observations about areas of neglect, not of total incompetence.

2. You misrepresent the case when you say I complained because potential voters were turned away from the special booths and instead directed to the election commissioner's office downtown. The special registration booths were operated in the evenings — and the downtown office was already closed. When turned away, persons had nowhere else to go except home. Persons with jobs or day commitments could rightly find little consolation in a directive to return between 8:30 and 4:30 the next day. Some who were turned away were reportedly quite upset — and rightly so, I believe.

The excuse that they could come into town during the day, or come back in October on a Thursday evening, ignores the fact that there was simply no excuse for not having one or the other evening booth last week equipped to handle rural registrations.

3. You cite 34 "out-of-office registrations" in the immediate past, and 11 projected in the near future — a total of 45 special opportunities to register apart from the election commissioner's office. May I note that every one of these 45 opportunities (according to what Mr. Davidson and Mrs. Haake have told me) has been or will be in the city of Lincoln! Your statistics, rather than countering my argument, rather solidify it. If time and money can be found to send people into high schools, grocery stores, the Gateway shopping center or onto the university campus — all in Lincoln and for the added convenience of people in Lincoln — then why can't a little time or money be found to send people to Hickman or Hallam or Firth or Martell or any other place in the county which involves not a 30-block convenience to people, but a 40-60-mile or more convenience? Previous commissioners have been able to provide some such outlying registration points. Still unanswered is the question why no such points were planned for this year.

4. Your statistic of a 14% increase in registration has nothing to do with my contentions, for you fail to specify what proportion of this increase may be rural. I know that at least 25% of it — the 3,000 registrations taken at special booths last week — is exclusively city. If you can present statistics about increases in the 39 rural precincts vs. increases in the city precincts as a refutation to my contention, then I am willing to stand corrected.

Until you do, your statistic only confuses the issue and proves nothing other than that there is a significantly increased electorate this year — a fact no one could deny.

5. You fail to address yourself to my first practical recommendation to Mr. Davidson — that he make sure that "green cards" (voter registration change of address or change of name forms) are available in every bank and post office in the county. I find it inexcusable that neither Mr. Davidson nor his assistant knew which banks or post offices in the county might have such cards. Both stated that it was not the policy to supply cards automatically — that they were supplied only upon request. I think that policy should be changed. A simple mailing of cards to every bank and post office would cost a nominal amount and take virtually no staff time.

6. Finally, neither you nor Mr. Davidson has explained why Mr. Davidson opposes allowing qualified volunteers to go through outlying Lancaster county to register people. Mr. Davidson stated Wednesday that he was "finished" with out-of-office registrations, apart from the ones he had already scheduled for October at Gateway (although today's news that he will allow a campus registration drive between Oct. 9-11 indicates that he has apparently changed his mind since Wednesday).

In summary, the fact that all of the election commission's 45 "out-of-office" efforts have been city-based if not exclusively city-directed apparently does not disturb you or Mr. Davidson. Well it disturbs me. And if you are fair with yourself, I think it should disturb you. For if you really believe in equality before the law, then rural residents of Lancaster County are just as entitled to an equal opportunity to register at a time and place convenient to their homes as are residents in the 13 areas of Lincoln last week, residents in eastern Lincoln near Gateway next week, or university students in the on-campus registration slated for October. Unless, of course, you mean to imply that rural Lancaster County residents are somehow not as equal or not as worthy as city residents or university students.

I repeat my contention: Mr. Davidson owes each of those persons turned away last week — whether the number is 15 or 50 or 100 or more — an apology for the system which prohibited them from exercising their constitutional right to register at a duly certified registration area. And I now think that you owe an apology to every rural resident of Lancaster County for your defense of a system which would treat rural voters as some type of second-class citizens.

The Comparison

Battle Creek, Neb.

Kevin P. Phillips (The Star, Sept. 15) and John B. Janacek (Letters, Sept. 20) show us that the old right-wing Republican tactic of impugning the patriotism and loyalty of the opposition is being dusted off for this election. Today's attempts to link Senator George McGovern with communism are indistinguishable from those of 20 years ago, when Senator Joe McCarthy and his ardent disciple, Senator Richard M. Nixon, destroyed one career after another.

Much is made of McGovern's early years in the late 40's and early 50's by his enemies. But any comparison of the "old" Nixon and the "old" McGovern would show Nixon spreading fear and hate, denouncing fellow Americans as communist sympathizers, while the South Dakotan would come through courageously calling for peace, reconciliation, and understanding between East and West during America's worst period of anti-Red hysteria.

It is interesting to note that Nixon is today following some of those very policies toward Peking and Moscow that Senator McGovern advocated over two decades ago.

Union Policies

Omaha, Neb.

As a union man, I recognized political expediency and double-talk when Terry Carpenter said he "didn't think a man ought to be required to join a labor union against his will. But where a man accepts the benefits of a union, the least he can do is pay his dues."

President of Nebraska AFL-CIA William Brennan said, "We're about as close to a dictatorship in this country as we have ever been."

When a man becomes unhappy about a mandate from his union assessing his pay check for a strike fund for as much as necessary and for as long as necessary because some other local affiliated with the international is having financial trouble, and this man is told he must pay or quit his job, then we do have dictatorship. The last international convention passed a resolution giving the international the right to do this and also tell all locals what their union dues shall be. It used to be the international could only set the per capita tax to them and we set our dues accordingly.

The 14-B section of labor law known as the "right to work law" is the most important law in Nebraska and I want to keep it. I would rather risk a few free-loaders than to be forced to turn my pay check over to the international any time an emergency arises. The best union is the one whose members volunteer their dues and efforts.

The reason most delegates follow in line with what is wanted at a convention is because back home, in many cases they are an officer of their local and receive a salary and a dues refund.

Many international unions have a pension plan negotiated in the local contract so this ties up a local and prevents any possible disaffiliation.

I have no love for management but I would hate to see the "protector" become the boss or, as I call him, the "tyrant."

Mr. Brennan is just doing the job he is paid to do but there is no good reason for Terry Carpenter to talk to us labor people as if we couldn't think for ourselves.

On behalf of the Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Project, I would like to thank The Star for the coverage of the Dana Andrews' visit.

For LASAP to be successful in reducing the number of deaths and injuries due to alcohol-related highway crashes, all drivers must be aware of the magnitude of the drinking, driving problem.

The articles during the Dana Andrews visit and stories which The Star staff have done in the past quite clearly point out the extent of the problem.

Lincoln Appears Certain To Receive Funding For Railroad Relocation

Lancaster County Railroad Transportation Safety District (RTSD) Executive Director Marvin Nuernberger said Monday there appears little doubt that federal funds will be forthcoming for Lincoln.

Nuernberger noted that Lincoln has been named in both the Senate and House versions of the 1972 Federal-Aid Highway Act as a special demonstration project on relocation of metropolitan railroads.

"I'm almost positive we're in," he told RTSD Board members.

The only doubt, he said, is how much money Lincoln could receive from federal sources to fund the district's railroad track relocation projects.

Nuernberger said Lincoln could receive anywhere "from $3 million to $12 million" since the House version calls for $12 million in expenditures and the Senate version calls for $3 million. The Senate version of the 1972 Federal-Aid Highway Act has been adopted by that body.

In other business RTSD legal counsel Robert Crosby reported that he is still waiting formal approval by Burlington Northern on a relocation project in northwest Lincoln.

The Union Pacific already has formally approved relocation project for railroad improvements near the Lincoln Municipal Airport.

Rock Island management has verbally agreed to a second RTSD project, Nuernberger said, to abandon Rock Island track from 27th and Capital Parkway, south to the south side of Hwy. 2 in the Industrial Park.

Corn Crop Developing Slightly Behind Normal

Nebraska's corn crop is developing slightly behind normal and needs warmer weather to spread crop maturity, government crop observers said Monday.

The crop is 76% mature compared to 81% normal and is suffering some damage from root and stalk rot, according to the weekly report of the state-federal division of agricultural statistics.

Otherwise, crops are reported in good condition although cool weather last week slowed some development. The sorghum crop is the states having capital punishment.

Subsequently, the nation's high court mandated all of the states involved to initiate resentencing procedures, including in the cases of Alvarez and Pope.

George Turner, clerk of the State Supreme Court, said the denials were handed down by the court without comment. He added the action now clears the way for resentencing by the two state district courts involved.

The requests were made by the Justice Department on the basis of a reconsideration motion pending before the U.S. Supreme Court on its ruling the death penalty was cruel and unusual punishment.

The requests said it was possible the nation's high court may decide to reverse itself on the unconstitutionality ruling.

The department had also contended that until the court further interpreted its decision, there could be questions on what penalties may be lodged against the two men as a replacement sentence.

Pope was originally handed the death sentence by the federal courts in connection with the deaths of three persons during a bank robbery at Big Springs, Neb., in 1965.

Later, however, the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals voided the death sentence.

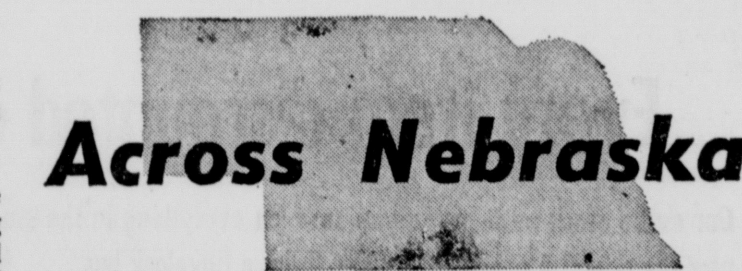

Subsequently, he was taken back into federal district court and sentenced to life imprisonment. But the day the resentencing was accomplished in federal court, a warrant was served for him to stand trial for murder in the Duell County District Court on state charges.

It was that death sentence which was under appeal to the nation's high court when it was decided in another case from Georgia to void the death penalty.

The case was then returned to Nebraska along with the resentencing mandate. The issues of the appeal — double jeopardy by standing trial in both state and federal court — were not decided.

Alvarez was convicted by the Lancaster County District Court and sentenced to death for the rape-slitting of Lincoln socialite Mrs. Mary O'Shea in 1966.

The pair were the only ones facing the electric chair in the state when the U.S. Supreme Court reached its decision on capital punishment.

Grain Shipping Coordination Planned

Omaha (UPI) — Gov. J. J. Exon announced Monday his office will try to coordinate the various forces involved in moving grain shipments to try to assure an adequate supply of railroad cars for the Nebraska harvest.

Exon said at a news conference he has ordered State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher to "monitor" the situation and try to improve cooperation between the various grain states and the Interstate Commerce Commission, the railroads, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the trucking companies.

Exon said the sale of wheat to Russia has complicated the situation by tying up large numbers of cars, especially the widely preferred hopper cars.

Kreuscher told newsmen he expects a near-record corn and grain sorghum harvest this fall and expects that there will be a fast harvest with rapid movement of grain to storage facilities.

Both he and the governor stressed that quick and orderly movement of grain to storage facilities means dollars to farmers.

Kreuscher said the crush should hit about the first week of November if the weather remains good. He said it probably would mean using many older facilities, especially older boxcars instead of hopper cars, many of which are tied up moving midlands grain to ports at Houston and the Great Lakes.

Kreuscher said the 1971 corn crop totaled about 450 million bushels and the grain sorghum crop about 130 million. The 1972 crop, he said, should be at least as great.

Exon said he met earlier Monday at Lincoln with representatives of the various railroads serving Nebraska. "After that meeting I again salute the railroad industry for its cooperation in trying to better serve the farmers and other residents of the state," Exon said.

He said 1971 was the first year in many years in which there was no shortage of boxcars. He said the problem this year still is only "potential," and is caused by the overseas grain sales.

Exon said all interested parties will be advised that there is a potential grain car shortage. He said railroads will coordinate with trucking companies to help alleviate the crush, and will do more weekend loading.

He said a major problem lay in coordinating the cargo ships at Houston and the Great Lakes ports with the rail cars so that the cars are not tied up waiting for ships.

Sen. Waldron Hopes Legislature Can Deal With Single No-Fault Bill

By United Press International
Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway said he hopes the 1973 Legislature will have only one no-fault auto insurance proposal before it.

At present, he said, there are three different versions to be discussed when his legislative study committee on insurance meets next month.

In the meantime, Waldron will be appearing on the Nebraska Educational Television Network's program "Dateline Nebraska" Tuesday night beginning at 8:30 p.m.

During the program, Don Pieper of the Omaha World-Herald, Don Walton of the Lincoln Star and Dick Herman of the Lincoln Journal will quiz Waldron on the concept of no-fault insurance.

Waldron said the three plans he has ready for committee discussion include Florida's law, a variation of a proposal introduced during this year's session of the Unicameral, and a third plan developed as national model legislation.

"We're going to try to get those interested to agree on some form of a bill from these," the lawmakers said, adding it is hoped only one bill, or two at the most, will finally emerge.

Overall, Waldron said, whatever plan evolves will have to stand a rigid acceptability test, or the concept would have little chance of being enacted.

"It's going to have to provide better rates and as good or better benefits or it simply won't pass," the senator said.

Under the no-fault concept, when a person is involved in an accident, his own company would have that person's claims regardless of whose fault the accident was.

Trial attorneys, however, have been against the idea in the past contending such an arrangement infringes on the basic right of free access to the courts.

As a result, variations of complete no-fault coverage have evolved which allow for some kind of deductible no-fault coverage with the legal fraternity taking over should damages exceed a certain level.

Others have opposed the idea on the grounds the individual rates which eventually evolve under the system are not tailored to that person's driving ability, but instead are geared to the high risk driver category.

Those in support of no-fault contend overall insurance costs would go down by cutting out expensive court litigation costs.

Support For Caril Fugate Being Sought

Backers of parole for Caril Fugate, convicted for murder as an accomplice to Charles Starkweather, have asked that Gov. J. J. Exon be sent expressions of backing for the 29-year-old woman.

The Omaha Chapter of the Seventh Step Foundation an organization of ex-prisoners and others dedicated to aiding paroled criminals to reenter society, is circulating forms to be filled out and sent Exon.

Printed in the organization newspaper, the forms appear under a heading "help free Carol (sic) Fugate" and an article which says in part, "the time is right to do all that we can to get a fair and impartial parole hearing for Carol Fugate."

Miss Fugate, who was 14 when she was sentenced to life imprisonment and sent to the York women's prison, was the subject of a recent national television special, "Growing Up In Prison."

Although Miss Fugate is not yet seeking parole, she has said she will ask for parole if she is turned down in an appeal now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Vonna Jo Moody, a native of McCook, will serve on the urban ministries staff of the United Methodist Metro Ministry in St. Louis.

The young missionaries, known as "US-2s," will be the 22nd group to serve in a special-term, two-year program which began in 1951. They will work in children's homes, mission schools and hospitals, community centers, and urban and campus ministries.

Miss Moody is a 1971 graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, where she was a member of the University Christian Movement. She participated in a "Washington-Urban Semester" program in the nation's capital and has done volunteer work at an inner-city community center.

She is a member of Wauneta's First United Methodist Church.

Omaha Drug Death Toll 15 In 6 Months

Omaha (P) — The death of Gene Porter Wadsworth, 22, was the 15th drug-related fatality in Douglas County since James Keenan became acting county coroner six months ago, Keenan said Monday.

Wadsworth's death was caused by a combination of morphine and alcohol, Keenan said.

Wadsworth was found dead on steps leading to his apartment Aug. 23.

Of the 15 drug-related deaths, six or seven were older persons who apparently accidentally took overdoses of pain-killing drugs, Keenan said. Only one of the 15 appeared to be a suicide, he said.

Keenan said he had no comparative figures on the number of drug-related deaths from other six-month periods.

Support For Caril Fugate Being Sought

Backers of parole for Caril Fugate, convicted for murder as an accomplice to Charles Starkweather, have asked that Gov. J. J. Exon be sent expressions of backing for the 29-year-old woman.

The Omaha Chapter of the Seventh Step Foundation an organization of ex-prisoners and others dedicated to aiding paroled criminals to reenter society, is circulating forms to be filled out and sent Exon.

Printed in the organization newspaper, the forms appear under a heading "help free Carol (sic) Fugate" and an article which says in part, "the time is right to do all that we can to get a fair and impartial parole hearing for Carol Fugate."

Miss Fugate, who was 14 when she was sentenced to life imprisonment and sent to the York women's prison, was the subject of a recent national television special, "Growing Up In Prison."

Although Miss Fugate is not yet seeking parole, she has said she will ask for parole if she is turned down in an appeal now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Beaten Omaha Man, 37, Dies

Omaha (P) — Albert M. Stanbeck, 37-year-old Omaha man who told police he was lured into a severe beating, has died in a hospital.

Police said Stanbeck was released a few days following the incident but was readmitted to the hospital in mid-July when internal disorders caused his condition to worsen.

He died Saturday.

Two persons have been booked in connection with the case and are free on $20,000 bond each.

Sen. Waldron Hopes Legislature Can Deal With Single No-Fault Bill

By United Press International
Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway said he hopes the 1973 Legislature will have only one no-fault auto insurance proposal before it.

At present, he said, there are three different versions to be discussed when his legislative study committee on insurance meets next month.

In the meantime, Waldron will be appearing on the Nebraska Educational Television Network's program "Dateline Nebraska" Tuesday night beginning at 8:30 p.m.

During the program, Don Pieper of the Omaha World-Herald, Don Walton of the Lincoln Star and Dick Herman of the Lincoln Journal will quiz Waldron on the concept of no-fault insurance.

Waldron said the three plans he has ready for committee discussion include Florida's law, a variation of a proposal introduced during this year's session of the Unicameral, and a third plan developed as national model legislation.

"We're going to try to get those interested to agree on some form of a bill from these," the lawmakers said, adding it is hoped only one bill, or two at the most, will finally emerge.

Overall, Waldron said, whatever plan evolves will have to stand a rigid acceptability test, or the concept would have little chance of being enacted.

"It's going to have to provide better rates and as good or better benefits or it simply won't pass," the senator said.

Under the no-fault concept, when a person is involved in an accident, his own company would have that person's claims regardless of whose fault the accident was.

Trial attorneys, however, have been against the idea in the past contending such an arrangement infringes on the basic right of free access to the courts.

As a result, variations of complete no-fault coverage have evolved which allow for some kind of deductible no-fault coverage with the legal fraternity taking over should damages exceed a certain level.

Others have opposed the idea on the grounds the individual rates which eventually evolve under the system are not tailored to that person's driving ability, but instead are geared to the high risk driver category.

Those in support of no-fault contend overall insurance costs would go down by cutting out expensive court litigation costs.

Eastborough
South Hills
Kimballcrest

in the suburban areas

Only two candles adorned the birthday cake served at the South Haven Hills home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ernise on Sunday evening, Oct. 1. The celebration, nevertheless, was an exciting one, particularly for Miss Jennifer Ernise, who celebrated her second birthday with a group of her relatives.

Dropping in for the party, which had a Raggedy Ann theme, were the little miss's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Becker, and Harold Ernise; her great-grandmother, Mrs. J. P. Sinner; her great-uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Becker; and her uncle and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Becker and Miss Susan Becker.

Three was the magic number when Miss Kim Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary C. Hansen of Kimballcrest, celebrated her long-awaited third birthday on Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Dropping in during the afternoon hours to wish Kim a happy day were her aunts and cousins, Mrs. Alan Hansen and Lisa and Scott; and Mrs. Tom Tegley and Tommy.

The evening hours provided another chance for celebrating as more guests stopped in for an ice cream and cake party. Included in the festivities were Kim's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Reich; her godparents and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Reich, and their son, Travis; and another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Lyons, and their sons, Chad and Curt. Of course, the birthday girl's brother, Jeff, was included in all of the party plans.

By the way, Miss Hansen also reached another milestone on her third birthday — she received her first bouquet of flowers as a gift from her Grandma and Grandpa Hansen.

Judging from our survey of Eastborough this morning, that suburban area has been what one might call 'busy', to put it mildly.

Just to prove our point we'll tell you about all of the activity that has been going on at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Hertz. It all began a week ago today when Mrs. Hertz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Schafer of Wymore arrived in Lincoln, and were the Monday-to-Friday guests at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, and their grandchildren, Beth and Danny.

For Mr. Schafer the trip to Lincoln involved business, but it was strictly pleasure for Mrs. Schafer. Then, too — there were some shopping sprees for Mrs. Schafer and Mrs. Dennis in between the tours of the various shops, there was considerable catching up on family news.

Mr. and Mrs. Schafer, however, weren't the only guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis last week. On Tuesday Mr. Hertz's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hertz of Livermore, Calif., who were visiting Mr. Hertz's father, William Hertz, in Wymore, and their sons, Ricky, Ronnie, Gary and Greg, came to Lincoln to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Hertz.

Miss Sherri Ruyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ruyle, turned 14 years old on Wednesday, Sept. 27, and she was surprised at school when several of her friends presented her with a cake and joined in singing the "Happy Birthday" song.

In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ruyle and their other children, Nancy, Patricia, Joan and Bob enjoyed a pizza dinner honoring Sherri. Also present for pizza and to express birthday wishes were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rake, friends of the family.

TOWN
TALK

The problem this morning is where to begin on the news around town — We could start with the Junior League, of course, and tell you that the members are having a 9:30 o'clock meeting this morning at the Lincoln Country Club —

Or—we could tell you about a dancing club that doesn't believe all of that gossip about the bad things that can happen on Friday, the 13th—

Or—we might tell you about all of the activity that has been going on as far as the Women's Association of the Colonial Golf Club is concerned — we hope we have time to give you all of the news about this one — but if not today — tomorrow.

We could start almost anywhere and have something interesting to talk about, but we've decided to start the day's work with some news from Spokane, Wash.

The communique from Spokane will be of interest to Lincoln — especially to Kappa Alpha Theta alumnae who were on the campus not too long ago.

Our news has to do with the arrival of a brand new Theta legacy, Miss Wendy Christine McCaffery, who had her first glimpse of the world on Wednesday, Sept. 27.

The young lady's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Mac McCaffery of Spokane, and her mother is the former Kathy Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duard Henderson of Lincoln —and a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Dr. McCaffery, by the way, also is a graduate of the University of Nebraska (Sigma Chi) and of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine in Omaha. He is the son of Miss Wendy's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McCaffery of Scottsbluff. At present Dr. McCaffery, who was graduated last June, is interning in Spokane.

Back in the beginning we mentioned the Junior League and its meeting at the LCC this morning. It is to be a business meeting which will not only be attended by the League members, but by the 17 new provisionals as well.

Following the business meeting the Provisionals will be honored at a luncheon for which the guest speaker will be Dr. Keith Prichard associate professor of sociology of education at the University of Nebraska. Dr. Prichard will speak on the changing status of the family and the role of volunteers in today's world.

The sustaining members of the Junior League will also be meeting at the Lincoln Country Club this morning, and have been invited to attend the luncheon for the provisionals.

The Carousel Club is tossing all caution to the winds and has a Halloween Masquerade party planned for Friday evening, Oct. 13. The party, which begins at 7:30 o'clock, will be a costume affair, and will be held at the Air National Guard NCO Club. An evening of dancing is to be followed by a late supper.

The party planners are Mr. and Mrs. Gary Anderson, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. William Sutter, Mr. and Mrs. James Hulse and Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Rasmussen.

During the evening there will be an introduction of four new member-couples, including Mr. and Mrs. David Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Litty, Dr. and Mrs. Wesley Berry, Jr., and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson.

On the official staff of the Carousel club this year are Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Rasmussen, president; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Schafer, vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Higgins, secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. David Sundberg, treasurer.

MISS BERNADETTE KRATOCHVIL
This morning the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Bernadette Kratochvil, daughter of Mrs. Edward Kratochvil, and the late Mr. Kratochvil, to Larry Schneider, son of Mrs. Ethel Schneider of Brainard, and Joe Schneider of Wymore, is announced by the bride-elect's mother.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Dec. 2.

Miss Kratochvil is a former student at the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Schneider, a lieutenant in the Army Reserves, was graduated from the University of Nebraska where he majored in physical education.

Brownville Fall Festival

BY CYNTHIA JOHNSON

One of the featured events at this year's "Fall Festival" to be held in the historic town of Brownville on Sunday, Oct. 8, will be the opening of a new exhibit at the Carriage House Art Gallery.

Located in the restored carriage building on the grounds of the well-known Carson House, the Gallery has previously been available to the public only at limited times during the year. Following next Sunday's festivities however, it will be open year-round.

The autumn exhibit will feature a Christmas Shop, and among the items to be offered for sale will be jewelry fashioned by Kern Wisman of North Platte, graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University and current curator of the Gallery; and candles, paintings, prints and Christmas cards created by Paul Arnold of Spirit Lake, Iowa. In addition, there will be an extensive arts and crafts display featuring a wide representation of artists and craftsmen.

The opening of the Carriage House Gallery exhibit is just one of a number of events being planned for the Festival, which is sponsored jointly by the Brownville Historical Society and the Brownville Fine Arts Association. Also included on the day-long agenda will be the annual tour of homes which will begin at 1 o'clock.

Among the restored homes open for viewing will be the Pollack house, built in 1871 and owned by Dr. and Mrs. Hal Smith of Fremont; the Gates-McLaughlin House, which is the permanent residence of John Rippey, president of the Brownville Historical Society, and which is included in the National Registry of Historical Places; The Bratton-Milnick House, otherwise known as "Sunny Side Place," built in 1863 and owned by Brownville artist Tom Palmerton and Mrs. Palmerton; and the Nace house, built in 1871 and restored by Don Gappa, a social worker at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha.

Between the hours of 3 o'clock and 5 o'clock, a reception will be held at the Carson House, and highlighting the event will be a 3 o'clock recital to be presented by vocalists, Mr. and Mrs. John Lauber, and guitarist John Walker, all of whom are members of the Nebraska Wesleyan University faculty. Guests will be received by State Sen. Irving Wiltse of Falls City and Mrs. Wilke, and Mrs. Harold Smith of Fremont, 1972 Nebraska Mother of the Year.

Members of the younger generation will enjoy a show to be presented at the Town Hall by the Lincoln Community Playhouse Puppeteers, under the Direction of Mrs. Neal Ridge. Performances are scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock, noon, 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock.

The "Belle of Brownville" will also be available for river boat rides throughout the day.

Among those who have been instrumental in planning the Oct. 8 event are the newly-elected officers of the Brownville Art Association — Mrs. Carl H. Rohman, president, Dr. John Allely of Omaha, vice-president, Mrs. Gene Cederdahl, secretary and Mrs. Harry Hess of Omaha treasurer; and the officers of the Brownville Historical Society who are — in addition to the president, Mr. Rippey — Clay Kennedy of Brownville, vice-president, Marion Marsh Brown of Omaha, secretary and Mrs. Richard A. McMullen II, of Stella, treasurer.

PEO Group

"Bringing the World Indoors" was the topic of the program presented by Mrs. William Franz at the Monday evening, Oct. 2, meeting of Chapter GJ, PEO.

WHAT CAUSES BLOTCHING AND DISCOLORATION OF THE SKIN

The accumulation of dead skin, that most women are not aware of, causes blotching and discoloration. Look at the areas on a man's face where he shaves. Because he is constantly removing dry layers of skin with his razor, his skin is free of blotching and discoloration. Women have no means of removing these dry layers of skin, so they consequently are prone to blotching.

Peel O Matique Creme can remove this unwanted skin gently and quickly. It contains no abrasives or chemical acids. Cosmetics, 1st floor downtown, mall level Gateway.

Abby: honeymoon is over

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Ralph and I have been married for two years, and we are still very much in love, but here's our problem: Ralph is "scheduling" what used to be our most beautiful and romantic moments, and I don't like it. He says, "No romance until after Johnny Carson."

Abby, sometimes I don't want to stay up that late, because I have to be up at 6 a.m. sharp every day, but Ralph stays up to watch the whole show no matter who's on.

I think he's being selfish, and he thinks I'm being stubborn. I'd like your opinion. And in case you think this is a gag, I'm signing my full name, but please don't use it. Sign me...

SLEEPY TIME GAL IN MPLS.

DEAR GAL: If your husband isn't turned ON until Carson is turned off, you need more help than I can give you in a letter. I'm afraid the honeymoon is over when the boob beside you ignores you for the tube.

Party Is Courtesy To Bride-Elect

It appears that the breathing spell that Dan Cupid has had during the past week or two, is about to come to an end. October and its alleged 'bright blue weather' has arrived, and with it comes another bevy of brides.

Perhaps there aren't quite so many weddings in October as there were in August, but judging from the calendar the new month is running a very close second.

One of the October brides will be Miss Cheryl Hegener who has an October date for her marriage to Russell Boyte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyte, and who, of course is the incentive for prenuptial courtships.

Last Friday evening, for example, Miss Hegener's cousin, Mrs. Frank Laher, and two of her aunts, Mrs. Gerald Knaub and Mrs. James McClure, complimented the bride-elect with a party at the home of Mrs. Laher. During the evening the soon-to-be bride was presented with a miscellaneous show.

Opening lead — four of diamonds.
 The United States lost 10

imps to Italy on Deal No. 62 when Forquet and Garozzo, bidding with customary precision, arrived at a grand slam on the sequence shown.

Garozzo opened one spade and Forquet responded modestly enough with two clubs. Garozzo rebid his spades and Forquet made the first of several key bids directed towards reaching a grand slam. He jumped to four diamonds, an artificial bid accepting spades as the trump suit and at the same time expressing great interest in either a small or grand slam.

East doubled, which had the unfortunate effect of permitting Garozzo to redouble and thus announce first round control of diamonds. Assured by the redouble that his partner had either the ace of diamonds or a void in the suit, Forquet cuebid hearts before leaping to five notrump over Garozzo's signoff bid of four spades.

Five notrump was the grand slam force, requiring partner to bid seven spades if he had two of the three top trump honors. Garozzo dutifully bid seven, which proved to be laydown.

When the U.S. North-South played the hand, the bidding went:

East South West North
 Pass 4 ♠ Pass 4 NT
 Pass 5 ♠ Pass 6 NT

Lawrence responded to the preemptive four spade bid with Blackwood, but when Goldman denied an ace by bidding five clubs, Lawrence quite sensibly settled for six notrump as the final contract. He had no way of knowing that Goldman had a magic hand that included a void in diamonds.

East led the ace of diamonds and the United States lost 520 points, or 11 imps on the deal.

Beatrice Council To Carry Floodplain Hassle To Exon

Beatrice — Angry over city floodplain zoning recently set forth by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, a citizens' delegation enlisted city council support Monday night including a pledge to carry the battle to the governor.

Fifty-nine persons with homes or businesses in the affected area jammed the council chambers as the follow-up to a Sept. 20 hearing at which the zoning was presented. The group had since organized to request the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission not to enforce regulations which would apply.

Under a 1967 state law, new developments and improvements within a floodplains area are to be severely restricted. One of the group's main contentions is that the Corps designated too large an area. With Mayor Bob Sargent promising to take the issue before the governor, the council unanimously passed a resolution to "protest vigorously" the Corps report. The same motion directed the city's legal and engineering departments to assist in the matter.

"On the surface this does look very unrealistic," said Sargent. "We have two choices, accept or fight, and we're going to fight. This would include at least half the business area and I think that's ridiculous."

City Attorney Earl Ahleschwede said it appears the zoning is designed to protect against a flood "eight to 10 feet higher than any ever recorded in Beatrice." Purportedly the Corps based its figures upon a flood likely to occur only once in 100 years.

Don Dingman, a principal spokesman for the objectors, said a Corps booklet on the area published in connection with the report "doesn't have a fact in it." He added that it was his understanding that even one error justified bringing the matter before the Resources Commission.

Businessman Joe Goldberg said a plant owned by him is included in the area, yet has never been flooded in some 70 years' existence. The zoning would, he added, "wipe out the entire industrial part of the city."

Sargent injected the only word for the Corps, cautioning that the agency "shouldn't be condemned 100%."

"They're telling us the worst that could ever happen to us," he noted.

The Sept. 20 hearing technically is being held open for testimony until Nov. 1. According to state law, the city would then have one year to adopt the regulations or the state would assume their enforcement.

One contention at the earlier hearing was that the Corps had exaggerated its figures to accommodate planning for flood control dams in the basin. It has also been questioned why many other cities have not been included in the floodplain zoning.

On another matter, a 6-2 vote approved an off-sale beer license for Boogart's Grocery. Councilmen Matt Hale and Larry Probst opposed the request on grounds the store's C-1 zoning does not permit alcoholic beverage sales.

However Ahleschwede said in his opinion the zoning would not prohibit beer. Boogart manager Jerry Jacobs argued that since at least one other grocery already sells beer "it would be favoritism to deny another a license."

Hale and Probst also voted alone in an attempt to have detailed money claims provided each councilman. It was noted that the claims already must clear department heads and two members of the city's finance committee.

At the suggestion of the mayor, he was authorized to request the airport authority to relinquish approximately 40 acres of land for development as an industrial site. The idea had come from the mayor's advisory council.

The area is a portion of 220 acres now being farmed and under control of the authority. Sargent said two tracts are under consideration, neither of them currently designated for airport expansion.

After rejecting a proposal to force the paving of all one-block segments connecting paved streets, the council did approve drafting a similar measure except that property owners would have the opportunity to petition out by segments. Councilman William Jenks made both proposals.

The council also: —referred to traffic and safety committee petition requesting that parking be restored on west side of 10th between Lincoln and Monroe.

—approved sale of city-owned tract on West Side to Les Mayhew for $77.

—accepted quit claim deed to property at northwest corner of Bill and Paddock from Morgan Vanover and voted to advertise for sale.

—authorized board of public works to advertise for bids on passenger cars for inspection dept.

—accepted application of Robert Ernest Wolf to Volunteer Fire Dept.

—heard brief explanation of newly created Lower Big Blue Natural Resources District by assessor Ron Fleets.

Washington Teachers End Two-Week Strike

By United Press International
Accepting a compromise pay increase with a promise of no reprisals, the Washington Teachers Union Monday ended a strike that had kept 141,000 District of Columbia pupils out of school for two weeks.

The 3,500-member union failed in its demand for a 17% pay raise, but agreed to a 7% boost retroactive to Sept. 1, coupled with an additional 5% increase next September.

The agreement, reached in marathon bargaining over the weekend, cleared the way for the district schools to open Tuesday.

In addition to wage increases, the union was granted its demand for 182 new teaching positions, additional school supplies and promises from the school board there would be no reprisals for those who participated in the strike. About half of the district's teachers are members of the union.

Superior Court Judge Robert Campbell, meanwhile, lifted a possible jail sentence for union leaders, but he refused to cancel or reduce a $90,000 fine against the union for contempt of court.

Services Set Tuesday For Three Nuns

Fremont (UPI) — Funeral services will be held in Fremont and Omaha Tuesday for three Roman Catholic nuns who died in a car-truck crash Sunday night five miles north of Fremont on U.S. 77.

The Rev. Father James Fitzgerald, pastor of St. Patrick's Parish in Fremont, said Monday night that Omaha Archbishop Daniel Sheehan would officiate.

Berg Says Thone Feels Insecure Over Record

Listing unanswered challenges for public debate made to incumbent Congressman Charles Thone, First District candidate Darrell Berg Monday said Thone's silence indicates that he is insecure about his voting record.

Conceding that Thone's attendance record is "almost perfect," Berg said, "I think that Mr. Thone may be concealing a flunk on the voting record by a perfect attendance record."

"The issues that are really relevant to the campaign are the ones he (Thone) wants to avoid," Berg said.

If farmers knew that the Farmers Union rates Thone's record on agricultural issues at 53%, they would jump to my side, Berg said.

Berg also charged that Thone rates "barely 50% on educational issues and is rated by Field and Stream magazine at zero per cent on environmental issues."

Thone is "highly vulnerable" on his votes to end the war, Berg said. "Seven times he has voted against amendments that would end financing for the Vietnam war."

Berg also asked that Thone "make a statement on charges that big grain dealers took the lion's share of the profits from grain sales to Russia.

"Is it right for big grain dealers to have special intelligence?" Berg asked.

Berg attacked a tax reform proposal that Thone put forward recently, calling it a "death-bed conversion to the idea of tax reform."

Berg said that Thone had admitted that he didn't know how much his plan would cost, although it might be as much as $16 billion.

"Contrast that with the proposals I have made to plug tax loopholes that could amount to $15 billion in revenue," Berg said.

Berg said that he had first challenged Thone to debate in a telegram immediately after the primary, and then several times publicly, and again in a letter sent two weeks ago.

To date he has not so much as indicated that he has received those challenges, Berg said.

"I have to make a move to let him know that I'm alive and well and living in Lincoln and that I'm a candidate for the job that he holds."

"He doesn't seem to be aware of this yet," Berg said.

Technical Colleges Official, Leahy Will Discuss Needs

The executive secretary of the State Board of Technical Community Colleges will be discussing the best means of meeting the state's technical education needs with Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy Tuesday on a special one-day trip.

Dr. Robert Schleiger and Leahy will be travelling with a group of 40 Omaha businessmen and educators on a one-day tour of Oklahoma's approach to technical and community higher education. Specifically, the group will be eyeing a system utilizing federal funds for building and an occupational forecasting system.

Recently, Leahy has spoken out in favor of a federal brick-and-mortar approach to technical education for Nebraska. The system, funded by the Economic Development Administration, would work with the unemployed and undertrained in depressed areas and would attempt to attract industry. An estimated 23 counties in Nebraska would be eligible.

Schleiger said Monday he feels the state system could be compatible with the federal system if they acted in unison.

However, Schleiger said he finds it difficult to imagine a parallel system existing in the same state.

Schleiger said he will be "more than receptive" to any ideas concerning the federal approach and said he intends to make available any information regarding the fledgling state system.

"I'd appreciate the opportunity to have our system prove itself first," Schleiger said. "I'll be discussing the matter with him (Leahy) and I'll be trying to get his ear as much as possible."

Commerce Dept. Spends $257,687 In Lancaster Co.

U.S. Department of Commerce expenditures in Lancaster County totaled $257,687 for the fiscal year ending last June 30, Congressman Charles Thone reported.

The amount compares with $135,843 during the preceding year.

Some $257,400 was spent for operations of the Weather Bureau and $287 for Census Bureau activities.

Polled Hereford Breeder Bert O. Gammon, 91, Dies

Bert O. Gammon, co-founder of the Polled Hereford breed of beef cattle, died in a Des Moines hospital Sept. 27. He was 91.

Mr. Gammon, first executive secretary of the American Polled Hereford Association, was one of the great innovators in the American beef industry. Studying genetics in the early 1890s, he was a pioneer in the scientific selection of breeding stock for a specific trait.

He and his father, B. O. Gammon, purchased and bred purebred Hereford cattle selected specifically for their hornless trait about 1900. Those cattle formed the basis for today's third largest beef breed in America in terms of numbers.

Mr. Gammon served as executive secretary of the breeders association from 1911 until 1946. During his tenure, he guided the organization through formative stages and helped to foster its phenomenal growth over the past twenty years.

He was the first man to be inducted into the association's Hall of Fame when it was created in 1965.

Thomas L. Beins has been appointed Postmaster of Weeping Water. C. L. Dickey of the U.S. Postal Service made the announcement.

Beins, a postal careerist, had been officer-in-charge of the Weeping Water Post Office since June.

The appointment came under merit selection procedures of the Postal Reorganization Act in the new U.S. Postal Service. Beins' post is part of the Lincoln Sectional Center.

Beins began his Post Office career as a clerk in the Weeping Water station in 1956. Prior to being named officer-in-charge, he was distribution and window clerk.

He graduated from Plattsmouth High School and served with the U.S. Air Force.

Driver Education Program Upgrading Planned

By The Associated Press

A pair of state officials concerned with driver safety said Monday they will aid the State Education Department in upgrading Nebraska's driver education program for high school students.

The comments by State Motor Vehicles Director John Sullivan and State Office of Highway Safety Administrator Rod Hutt came in the wake of a report which said the Nebraska program had received only a minimum score in rankings made by the federal Department of Transportation.

Should Nebraska drop any lower, the possibility would exist that the state might lose some federal highway construction money.

One of the problems is reported to be the fact that only one person in the State Education Department is assigned to the driver education program, which is not a mandatory part of the school curriculum.

The Department of Administrative Services will recommend to the 1973 Legislature that another person be added to bring the total to two, Hutt said.

"That should help out some," he commented.

Sullivan said his office would be working in closer coordination with the education department than in the recent past as part of Gov. J. J. Exon's program to cut down the state's rising traffic death toll.

Another problem reported with the Nebraska program is that driver education is not available to all high school students since all schools do not include it as part of the curriculum.

Sullivan said he thinks the 1973 Legislature should consider making the program mandatory for all students. "I sure think it could help in lessening some of these accidents,"

Bicentennial Unit Will Open Office

By United Press International

The Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission is scheduled to open offices on Oct. 9, a spokesman said Monday.

Marvin Kivett, director of the State Historical Society and a member of the commission's executive board, said office space has been rented at 1345 M St. in the Capital City to house Nebraska's contributing agency to the 1976 national observance.

The commission member said Mrs. Eleanor Crosier of Lincoln has been hired to run the office in the capacity of administrative assistant to the commission.

Still to be hired, Kivett said, is an agency director.

However, he said, it has been decided to initially hire someone only part-time, until funding arrangements have been tied down.

The agency is scheduled to receive $45,000 from the federal government next year and is asking the Nebraska Legislature for an additional $25,000 to match it.

$3 Plan Ends

Concord N.H. (UPI) -- The New Hampshire Sweepstakes Commission voted to end its $3 sweepstakes program, the first state-run betting system in the nation. "Sales just don't justify continuation of the program," said a spokesman. The 50-cent lottery will continue.

Kivett also said the commission has decided to hold off naming a focal point for Nebraska's share of the national observance until Jan. 1.

A number of communities have requested consideration, he said, and a special committee of commission members was given the task of studying the various proposals.

One of the locations already suggested is Omaha. The suggestion was made by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Nebr., and centers specifically on the city's riverfront development project.

Poll: Majority Feels McGovern Too Liberal; Proposed Changes Too Drastic

By LOUIS HARRIS

Although 66% of the voters give Sen. McGovern credit for having "the courage to say what he thinks, even if it is unpopular," by 55-27% a majority also thinks "he wants to change things too much" and, by 54-26%, that "he has too extreme liberal views."

Thus, in addition to having a problem in inspiring confidence in his ability to lead the country as President, as reported Monday, Sen. McGovern also has run into some sharp voter disagreement with positions he has taken on key issues in the campaign.

On the issue side, however, the Democratic standard-bearer has some promising ground to plow:

—By 53-15%, voters gave their endorsement to McGovern efforts to "expose the profits that were made by dealers in the grain deal recently made by the Nixon administration with the Russians." Significantly, an even higher 56% of midwestern voters, located in or near the wheat belt, agree with McGovern criticisms on the wheat deal.

Louis Harris
Courage
Admired

—By 54-20%, they also are sympathetic with McGovern's position against "the close ties between big business contributors to the Republicans and the favors given them by the Nixon administration."

—By 51-23%, they feel McGovern "is right to emphasize the involvement of Nixon aides in the attempt to put listening devices in his and Democratic headquarters."

Thus, on the wheat deal, GOP ties with big business, and the Watergate affair, the senator from South Dakota appears to have some effective campaign material which might win him some votes in the heavy going of the next five weeks.

By the same token, there is another whole roster of issues on which McGovern is in some real trouble:

—By 54-21%, voters agree with the criticism that "he was wrong to say that after 90 days in the White House he would abolish all wage and price controls." Though he has tempered some of his statements on controls to state that he would favor a system of guidelines the impression prevails that McGovern favors a slackening of controls at a time when voters want tougher enforcement of wage and price controls.

—By 56-20%, voters feel that Sen. McGovern's "program for redistributing the wealth is too radical." Again, the Democratic standard-bearer in August modified many of his more extreme ideas of June. But the stamp on McGovern in this campaign is that somehow he is beyond the limits of tolerance on income redistribution.

—McGovern does better on the score of being known as a "fighter for tax reform and help for the working man," a statement agreed to by a 43-33% margin. However, he is losing ground as the campaign progresses on this appeal, for it was running 49-27% in his favor on the tax reform issue in early August.

—Much of the initial McGovern appeal on the Vietnam issue has now been dissipated, as the following table shows. Periodically, the Harris Survey has asked this question, most recently among 1,668 likely voters between Sept. 19-21:

"Do you tend to agree or disagree that Senator McGovern deserves a lot of credit for being against the Vietnam war before others were?"

and beg for the release of U.S. prisoners of war," negatively received by a 48-33% margin.

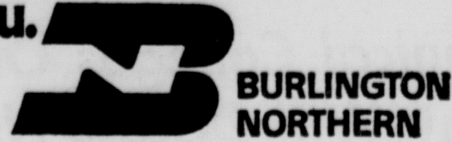

As a result of many of these stands, Sen. McGovern has now inherited the mantle of "having to extreme liberal views," an estimate held by a 54-26% count. The latest reading on this dimension is a bit down from the 57-25% majority who believed it in early September, but is still sharply up from the 31 who gave the charge credence in May.

For less than 2¢ a pound, Burlington Northern carried beef quarters by the carload 1,017 miles from Denver Colorado to Chicago Illinois, where it sold for about $1.15 a pound after it was boned and trimmed. That's good for the man who raised the beef. And good for the woman who bought it. Burlington Northern. The better we get, the better it is for you.

School Financing Vote Set In Colorado

Denver, Colo. (AP) — Colorado voters will decide Nov. 7 whether to abandon property taxes for support of public schools — a change which would revolutionize financing of both state and local governments.

Nobody knows exactly what will happen if a constitutional amendment incorporating the proposal is adopted in the general election.

The sponsoring organizations — Colorado Project Common Cause and the Colorado Labor Council, a combination of AFL-CIO unions — say it will mean equal educational opportunity for all youngsters, will bring the state into line with recent court decisions on school finance and will eliminate what they call loopholes in the income tax.

They are referring to state and federal court decisions in six states which ruled that funding local schools primarily from a local property tax without adequate equalization of tax resources discriminates against poor school districts. One of those cases is now before the U.S. Supreme Court, and a similar suit is on file in Colorado.

Gov. John A. Love opposes the change and the legislature has passed a resolution against it.

Love has announced he proposes instead to increase state aid to school's by around $70 million next year to more than $225 million and will seek a property tax limitation but he has not yet spelled out his idea.

The privately-financed Colorado Public Expenditure Council estimates passage of the constitutional amendment would shift about $350 million in property taxes to other taxes. State Revenue Director John H. Heckers declared it may send the highest state income tax rates skyrocketing from 5 to 25% for corporations and from 9 to 51% for individuals.

President Raymond Kimball of the Colorado Association of Commerce and Industry predicts it will lead to a flight of capital and well-to-do citizens from the state, ending a quarter century of growth.

Both Governor Love and State Treasurer Palmer Burch have expressed concern, that if other taxes were not raised sufficiently, the proposal would leave the state with only $80 million to operate its government — including colleges, institutions and welfare. Colleges alone are receiving $122 million state money this year.

Congress Pressed To Limit Spending

©The New York Times

Washington — Key officials linked Monday the Nixon administration's pledge not to increase taxes with congressional enactment of the $250 billion ceiling on federal spending this year.

Both John D. Ehrlichman, assistant to the President for domestic affairs, and Caspar W. Weinberger, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said enactment of the spending ceiling would constitute "insurance" against a tax increase next year.

The statements were milder than some of those made earlier by Ehrlichman and by Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, in which they promised that the President would not propose any tax increase throughout a four-year second term.

Monday, Ehrlichman and Weinberger also avoided most forecasts of tax policy past next year.

Ehrlichman did say there was no chance that a value-added tax could be put into effect next year.

His reason was simply that "mechanically and physically, it would be impossible to impose a complex tax of that kind within such a short time span."

The prospects for congressional passage of the spending ceiling continued to be uncertain.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which last week approved such a ceiling in precisely the no-exceptions form requested by the administration, is scheduled to meet to reconsider its action.

A growing number of House members have expressed doubts about the wisdom of the ceiling, primarily because it would give the President unlimited authority to cut spending in whatever programs he chose, to get total outlays down to the $250-billion figure. The ceiling would apply to the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

Opponents of the Ways and Means version of the ceiling want to add a requirement that Nixon report in advance to Congress on where he will cut spending, and to give Congress a chance to veto his plans.

It was not immediately clear whether Ways and Means would actually rewrite the ceiling proposal. The committee's chairman, Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said he opposed such a step.

Another possibility was that the committee would approve a change in the restrictive parliamentary procedure under which its bills are considered in the House. Ordinarily, no amendments are permitted.

In this case, however, it appeared possible that the committee might decide to propose that a single amendment be allowed — an amendment that would substitute the opposition version of the spending ceiling and thus give Congress some control over where the spending cuts were made.

Neither side seemed confident of the outcome.

Ehrlichman, seeking to allay congressional fears that some social programs would be cut to nothing if Nixon got the power he seeks, said what would be involved "is not drastic elimination of programs but simply a limitation on excessive growth of federal programs."

SPENDING LID . . . means no tax hike, say Ehrlichman, right, and Weinberger.

House Approves Funds For Work On Missouri

Washington (UPI) — The House Monday evening authorized $5 million in emergency funds for stabilization work on the Missouri River bank between Yankton, S.D., and Sioux City, Iowa.

Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., said the bill now goes to a Senate-House conference committee to resolve differences between the two chambers.

The House authorization came on approval of the Flood Control Act of 1972, which Thone had amended in the Public Works Committee to provide for the Missouri River funds.

The Senate version calls for $10 million in river bank stabilization work across the nation, and provides that no more than $250,000 could be spent for any one project.

Thone noted Monday that a

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers study showed that the seven worst stretches of river between Yankton and Sioux City would require about $700,000 each to correct.

The First District lawmaker said he was "already working" on efforts to have the conference committee bill read like the House version.

Thone said most of the soil erosion problems along the 100 mile Missouri River stretch are caused from the Gavins Point Dam. He said the erosion is ruining farmland, in addition to threatening soil on which the Sacred Heart Hospital in Yankton is located.

Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Backs Halloween Safety Program

A Halloween Safety Program, designed to preserve the best aspects of the age-old "Trick or Treat" tradition for Lincoln children, has been endorsed by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

The plan, which employs the Halloween Safety Rules of the National Safety Council, provides parents with a set of guidelines for protecting the safety of youngsters who participate in the annual Halloween celebrations.

The afternoon hours of Tuesday, Oct. 31st, have been designated by the mayor for "Trick-or-Treat" visits in Lincoln, according to the mayor's Administrative Assistant Bill Cooley.

On that day, residents wishing to participate are requested to keep on their porch or exterior lights. Children are encouraged to stop only at the lighted homes.

Other safety tips offered by Mayor Schwartzkopf include:

- Bring parents or other adults along.
- Stay in the immediate neighborhood.
- Accept only wrapped or sealed treats.

- Wear light-colored costumes decorated with reflective tape for greater visibility.
- Do not wear masks since they tend to restrict vision.
- Use flashlights after dark.
- If carrying a pumpkin, use a flashlight, not a candle to light it.

The National Safety Council's basic rules of pedestrian safety on Halloween include:

- Cross only at corners, never between parked cars, never diagonally across an intersection.
- Look in all directions before crossing the street.
- Obey all traffic lights.
- Walk on the sidewalk, not on the street.

In addition, the mayor cautioned Lincoln drivers to be on the look out for youngsters in the afternoon and early evening of Oct. 31st.

Enrollment Dips At Dana College

Upgrading Emergency Medical Care Bill OKd

Washington (P) — Speaker Carl Albert cast the deciding vote Monday night as the House passed a $255 million authorization bill to upgrade the nation's system of emergency medical services.

The rare vote by the Oklahoma Democrat enabled supporters to muster the required two-thirds majority under the special procedure used for House consideration of the bill.

Albert usually votes only to break ties.

Albert's ballot raised the total of backers to 244, thus just overcoming the 122 opponents of the legislation, with most of the controversy involving committee jurisdictional disputes.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., chairman of the Commerce Committee, defended his panel's handling of the legislation. He told the House: "I just want to save lives."

The bill was sent to the Senate.

Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the public health subcommittee and chief author of the bill, said it would provide for faster and better emergency care for accident victims and could lead to a cut of 15,000 in the annual highway-death toll.

"The time between when a victim first calls for help and that actual medical help is available," Rogers said, "is vital to the survival of that victim, and the aim of this legislation is to close that gap, to get medical care to the victim as soon as possible."

The Nixon administration supported the objective of the legislation.

Freed POW Wants War To End, Prisoners Home

By United Press International
 Navy Lt. (j.g.) Norris A. Charles, freed last week from captivity in North Vietnam, said Monday "I don't know how" to end the Vietnam war, but it must be ended.

"The war should be terminated and terminated to bring my fellow prisoners of war home," Charles told newsmen in his first public remarks since he entered Balboa Naval Hospital in San Diego, Calif. last Thursday.

"I don't know how but there will be a solution because there has been for all wars," said the 26-year-old pilot held captive since last December.

Charles declined to give his views on the war saying he needed more time "before I'm ready to come out and tell exactly how I feel."

However, he added, "when I entered the war I believed in my country and I still do, but I have done more thinking... when I left the country there were many problems. There still are problems but America is the most beautiful country."

"While I was a POW I missed America most. Of course, I missed my wife, daughter, dog and hamburgers but what you don't realize is the little things you don't recognize you miss until you do — That's why I missed America," Charles returned to the United States Thursday with two other POWs. Their release was coordinated by an American peace group, the Committee of Liaison.

The other men, Navy Lt. Markham L. Gartley, 28, now at the Jacksonville Naval Hospital in Florida, and Maj. Edward E. Elias, 34, now at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala., Monday underwent what officials said was "debriefing." No elaboration was offered.

Nebraska Retail Clerks Endorse Sen. McGovern

County Road Work Slated

A two-mile stretch of county road 1½ miles west of Davey will get a $22,946 face-lifting beginning Oct. 9th, according to the State Department of Roads.

Missouri Valley Construction Company, Grand Island, has been granted Lancaster county and federal highway funds to improve drainage and resurface the roadway with asphaltic concrete.

The road will be open during construction which is expected to end in April, 1973, the roads department reported.

Court Rules Parochial Law Unconstitutional

New York (UPI) — A three judge federal court Monday struck down as unconstitutional a statute that would have allowed New York State to provide tuition assistance to low income families with children in parochial school.

The special constitutional court also permanently enjoined the state from providing funds for the maintenance and repair of non-public schools.

By a 2-1 decision, the three judges denied an injunction against a third section of the law — to provide between $10 million and $15 million in state income tax benefits for families earning less than $25,000 a year who pay at least $50 tuition for children in parochial schools.

Appeals Court Judge Paul R. Hays dissented. The income tax provision was left open to the possibility of a trial at a future date.

Dr. F. Owen Installed By Kiwanis Club

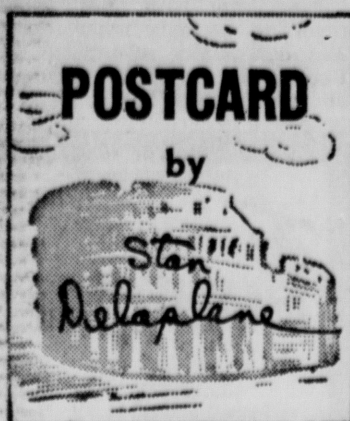

Dr. Foster G. Owen was installed Monday as President of Capital City Kiwanis.

Other officers for the 1972-73 club year are: John Frey, president-elect; Leslie Meyers, vice president; Dr. Edward Mattingly, treasurer; C. W. Nibler, secretary; and T. A. Evans, assistant secretary.

Members of the board of directors: Hubert Benson, Elmer Block, Lee Pasco, Ralph Reed, Donald Darnell, Kenneth Kritner, Rev. Thomas Huxtable; Dr. Art Nicolai.

The second day in the hospital I was still alive. ("It's a viral pneumonia," said the doctor. "I want to run some tests.")

The nurse woke me at dawn. She made a few cheery remarks and went away. Why do they shake you out of the downy when the sun is barely up? It is a mystery of life.

Two hours until breakfast. Three hours until the newspapers come.

I got up and got dressed. A couple of nurses put their heads in and cluck-clucked. You should stay in pajamas. It's the uniform of the day.

I didn't feel sick. Nervous, but I'd had worse colds. The nurse came by and said: "Take off your clothes. Get into this."

She handed me a cotton gown. It ties up the back—impossible. Houdini couldn't have done it.

She said: "Doctor has ordered a lung scan."

I said: "What is the scam on lungs?"

She said: "Scan not scam. Pictures."

She brought in a wheelchair. You cannot walk around the hospital.

We went down in the elevator. She rolled me into a room marked "Nuclear Medicine." Holy Mother!

There was an enormous green metal globe hanging over the room. It had a glass eye in it. On a backboard, there was an instrument panel. It looked like it had been pulled out of a 747.

Two girls pulled some switches and red lights blinked on and off.

They put me on a rolling bed and rolled me under the globe. It looked like something from outer space.

There was a humming noise. The globe descended and settled on my chest.

Behind me, the chicks were discussing something.

"Should it be 50,000?"

"No, I think 30,000."

Of what, I thought. Fifty thousand volts?

One girl came over and put my head to one side. She said: "I'm going to move this in closer." The green globe came down a little more and pressed against my chin.

Another girl came in. She told the first two: "If you have any trouble, I'll be around somewhere."

I got the idea the first two kids were practicing on me.

There was a clicking sound. I could feel the globe shudder. "I've had it," I thought. "Hiroshima all over again."

Behind a curtain in the next booth, a doctor said: "How do you feel now?" Another voice said: "Glug, glug."

They took me off the bed and put me in the wheelchair.

Get well presents had arrived in my room: Two baskets of flowers, eight bottles of liquor. (A ratio that shows how friends rate you.)

The medic came in. He listened to my chest. He said how did I feel. I said: "Scared to death, you fiend."

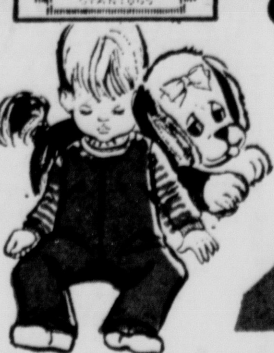

He said: "Well, I think I'll let you go home."

I said: "Home? I'm going over to North Beach and get absolutely smashed."

Trading Cadillac For Volkswagen

Nebraska football coach and athletic director Bob Devaney issued a storm warning two months ago at a press conference held in conjunction with the Big Eight Kickoff Luncheon in Kansas City.

"I'm worried about the Big Eight presidents cutting back so much on football scholarships that it will hurt our football programs," Devaney warned.

"I was in the Big 10 when they were beating everyone," he added. "Then they went on an Ivy League program and they went from the top to near the bottom in only a few years."

"People have got to let the presidents know that they want the type of football we now have and you writers have got to help. Don't let it happen."

A few of the writers put Devaney's warning into their newspapers, but for the most part, the warning went unheeded. Now, it appears that the Husker coach and AD wasn't just blowing smoke signals.

The Big Eight faculty representatives for athletics and Big Eight presidents got together last week in Kansas City and sure enough, one of the things discussed was cutting back on football costs.

And who do you suppose is leading the fight? It's not Oklahoma. It's not Nebraska. It's not Colorado. If you check the Big Eight standings in Monday morning's Lincoln Star, under the all games category, you'll find the schools leading the fight to cut back listed in the seventh and eighth positions.

As one might expect, it's the have-nots, Kansas and Kansas State, who are urging the Big Eight to cut back on football grants-in-aid.

What they're doing in essence is like the two neighbors, one of whom has a Cadillac and the other of whom has a Volkswagen. The neighbor with the Volkswagen wants to drive the same kind of car as his neighbor, but he can't afford a Cadillac, so he tells his neighbor to come down to a Volkswagen.

Will Big Eight Go Other Way

The Big Eight became the No. 1 football conference in the country because it had people who decided to work hard enough to be able to get a Cadillac.

More than a decade ago, the only school in the league with a Cadillac was Oklahoma while everyone else was driving a Volkswagen.

Oklahoma had jumped out front because it had jumped out there with a wholesale recruiting program. Instead of asking Oklahoma to cut back, Colorado, Nebraska and others decided to try to catch up.

And they did catch up. Kansas State and Kansas haven't caught up and their Dr. James McCain apparently has decided it would be better to pull the Oklahomas and the Nebraskas down to their level.

It's no secret that Kansas and Kansas State are having financial problems. It's easy to see why K-State would be in a financial dilemma. Their situation is a little like giving some guy making $50 a week a credit card. Pretty soon he's over-extended himself and now can't pay for it.

They gave Vince Gibson a new football stadium, an athletic dormitory, AstroTurf and plush offices.

Short Road Back

The Big Eight is now big league. But it could be a short road back.

If you cut back on football scholarships, you're going to have football that's not as appealing as it now is. That means fewer TV appearances and fewer bowl appearances.

TV appearances and bowl games mean money — lots of it — and not just for the Nebraskas and Oklahomas. Because they got caught cheating, neither Kansas State or Kansas has contributed anything to the Big Eight coffers through bowl games or TV appearances.

But they have gotten a slice out of the pie every time Nebraska has appeared on TV or gone to a bowl game and actually the teams that don't go to bowls from the Big Eight wind up with more money than those that do since they don't have the expenses.

We realize that the football fan, who has his own financial problems perhaps such as worrying about paying his children's dental bill, can't really be too concerned with the high finances of college football.

But if some of the things college presidents are trying to do get done, Saturday afternoons may be a little less enjoyable in the near future.

GUNDERSON SIDELINED

Gophers Welcome Returning Players

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Gophers, who have lost defensive tackle Jeff Gunderson for the season, hope to welcome back some of their other injured players in an intersectional football game at Memorial Stadium.

Gunderson, injured in a 49-0 loss at Nebraska Saturday, underwent knee surgery Sunday. Clayton Scheuer will replace him in the lineup.

Flanker George Honza reinjured a knee and running back Lou Clare suffered a charley horse in the loss.

Coach Cal Stoll said Monday he was hopeful that running back Kevin Keller, out with a hip injury, and defensive end Bob Bailey, injured shoulder, would return to game action. Keller, Bailey and running back Jim Henry, who has a

Kansas Seeking To Rebound

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas Jayhawks emerged from Saturday's loss to Florida State with only one problem injury and a determination to rebound.

Coach Don Fambrough said Monday he believes his team will come back strong when the Jays meet Minnesota Saturday in Minneapolis.

Frontwards Or Backwards,
Devaney Doesn't Care How

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney doesn't care how his football players get into the end zone as long as they get there.

"I'll admit that's the first time I've seen it," he said of Johnny Rodgers backing into the end zone Saturday to complete a punt return for a touchdown. "I think Johnny just wanted to turn around so he could see what the other fellows were doing."

Huskers Rise To 6th Place In AP Poll

By Associated Press

Southern California and Oklahoma remained 1-2 Monday in The Associated Press college football poll while Ohio State and Alabama moved into the third and fourth positions.

The Trojans of Southern Cal received 36 first-place ballots and 970 of a possible 1,000 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters following their fourth consecutive triumph, a 51-6 rout of Michigan State.

Oklahoma walloped Clemson 52-3 and received 13 first-place votes and 907 points. But Colorado and Tennessee, 3-4 a week ago, dropped well down in the rankings after being upset by Oklahoma State 31-6 and Auburn 10-6 respectively. Tennessee fell to 10th, Colorado to 12th.

Nebraska's defending national champions climbed from seventh to sixth on the heels of a 49-0 romp over Minnesota while Notre Dame whipped Purdue 35-14 and shot from 10th to seventh.

Washington led the Second Ten, followed by Colorado, Florida State, UCLA, Stanford, Penn State, newcomer Auburn, Mississippi and newcomers Air Force and Iowa State. The three new faces in the Top Twenty replaced Arizona State, Tulane and West Virginia.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Arizona State, Texas, Penn State, Washington, UCLA, Florida State, Mississippi, Tulane, Stanford and West Virginia.

Cowboys' Barnes Earns Loop Honors

Kansas City (AP) — New football coach Dave Smith's arrival on the Oklahoma State scene brought this conclusion: A healthy Gil Barnes at tackle would give the Cowboys a strong defensive front four.

Barnes is healthy. Nobody knows that any better than the Colorado Buffaloes. Barnes was one of the big reasons the Cowboys upset the Buffs 31-6 Saturday in the Big Eight Conference race opener.

Barnes was so effective that Monday he was named Big Eight defensive player of the week by a split vote over J. L. Doak, Missouri end.

A fifth-year senior from Balke, Okla., Barnes made seven tackles, including one behind the scrimmage line. On a key fourth down and one situation, he caused a fumble that halted a Colorado drive.

Other nominations were Eddie Sheats of Kansas safety Randy Hughes of Oklahoma, rover Gary Melcher of Kansas State, end Lennie Clufo of Colorado, middle guard Rich Glover of Nebraska and halfback George Campbell of Iowa State.

Lincoln Dog Wins

Kansas City, Mo. — Bar-B-R's Black Elk, an Alaskan malamute owned by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Blank of Lincoln, captured the national specialty five-point major open dog winners' dog trophies here Sunday in the Heart of America Kennel Club Dog Show.

"But as long as he gets into the end zone, I don't care if he goes in frontwards or backwards."

He called the pass catching of Johnny Rodgers phenomenal and prematurely let the cat out of the bag that the Husker slotback had been picked as the Big Eight Back of The Week.

If Devaney missed any member of his football team in handing out praise at Monday's Extra Point Club Quarterback Luncheon, it had to be strictly inadvertent.

The plaudits he handed out Monday in discussing the 49-0 win over Minnesota even dipped down to the third unit.

But he admitted the game might have been a bit tougher had the Huskers not gotten some luck on the first scoring drive and had Minnesota scored first.

"Minnesota came down here in bad physical condition," Devaney pointed out. "They knew it and we knew it. We knew that we should win, but we also knew that sometimes you should win, but don't."

"As we entered the game, we knew that Cal Stoll (Minnesota coach) felt that his team would have given Colorado a better game last week had they been able to score first."

"We also figured he felt the same way about this game. And our first score was a bit of a fluke."

The Huskers were driving on the Gophers early in the game when a David Humm pass was intercepted, but the interceptor fumbled and Nebraska recovered to keep the scoring drive alive.

"Minnesota should have had the ball," Devaney admitted. "But the guy making the interception was a linebacker, who must have thought he was a Red Grange and he tried a little fancy stuff and lost the ball."

"Then after we scored Minnesota put on a sustained drive, but didn't score. On that drive, they were keeping Rich Glover away from the ball carrier with a little reverse step by the quarterback."

"But as the game went on, Glover figured it out and after that he was in their backfield as much as any of their backs."

Devaney also praised the rest of the offensive line, ends Steve Manstedt and Willie Harper, and tackles John Dutton, Bill Janssen and Monte Johnson.

"Having Glover in the middle forces a lot of stuff to the outside and those other guys do a good job of stopping it out there," he pointed out. "Manstedt has improved each week."

Devaney again lauded the job done by the offensive line, but warned, "Maybe we'll start facing bigger tests when we meet Missouri because they rush a lot of people."

In conclusion, Devaney observed, "We're getting to the point of having a good team, but we've got to keep improving."

Fairbury, Bridgeport Protect Class B, C Ratings

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Fairbury and Bridgeport maintained their respective No. 1 holds on the Class B and C football ratings.

But Omaha Gross and Hebron are rapidly closing in on the pacesetters.

Gross jumped from fifth to second in the B ratings behind Fairbury and Hebron came from an even further back No. 6 to runnerup behind Bridgeport in the C ratings.

Gross enhanced its status by virtue of a convincing 42-7 win over Class A Omaha Northwest which had beaten Ralston, Elkhorn and Omaha Paul VI in its first three games.

Coach Stan Macaitis' Cougars' also own an equally impressive 35-0 victory over three-time winner Omaha Cathedral and a 59-0 triumph over Red Oak Iowa.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Randy York

Class B

- 1—Fairbury (4-0)
- 2—Omaha Gross (3-0)
- 3—Cozad (4-0)
- 4—Lexington (4-0)
- 5—Seward (4-0)
- 6—David City (4-0)
- 7—Gretna (4-0)
- 8—Kimball (4-1)
- 9—Alliance (3-1)
- 10—Albion (3-1)

Comment — Once-beats Blair, Central City, Ord and Sidney are chief ratings threats. Auburn and Columbus Lakeview, Nos. 4 and 10 last week, drop from list after first losses. Alliance, loser only to eighth-ranked Kimball and winner over Sidney (which has defeated previously Class A-ranked Scotts-bluff) joins select group at No. 9. Albion is other ratings newcomer. Omaha Gross advances from fifth to second after impressive 42-7 win over previously unbeaten Class A Omaha Northwest.

Class C

- 1—Bridgeport (4-0)
- 2—Hebron (4-0)
- 3—Grant (3-0-1)
- 4—Alma (4-0)
- 5—Valley (4-0)
- 6—Medicine Valley (4-0)
- 7—Fremont Bergan (4-0)
- 8—Sandy Creek (4-0)
- 9—Platteview (4-0)
- 10—Shelton (3-0-1)

Comment — Although nine of last week's top 10 stayed in the ratings, only one, ton-ranked Bridgeport, stayed the same. Seven teams advanced. Hebron, No. 6 a week ago, made the biggest jump to second after making Red Cloud its third shut-out victim, 33-0. Shelton has outscored its last three foes, 102-0, after season-opening tie and is the only ratings newcomer, having upset No. 2 Ravenna, which dropped from the list.

Lolich Limits Sox To 6 Hits

. . . BOSTON NEEDS SWEEP

DETROIT (AP) — It was like a thousand wedding processions all heading down the same street, and that street was Michigan Avenue outside Tiger Stadium Monday night. Horns honked continually and people yelled joyously, in a sea of pedestrians and autos stalled on the eight-lane thoroughfare.

It was a celebration procession reminiscent of the night the Detroit Tigers returned home in 1968 after winning the World Series. This time all they won was a regular season game—one which didn't even clinch anything.

But when the Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 4-1 Monday night before 51,518 screaming fans, it meant that all they need do now is win one of the two remaining games against Boston to capture the American League East championship and head for Oakland to play the Athletics in the first game of the AL Playoffs beginning Saturday.

Heroes? Detroit had plenty in its biggest pressure game of the year—a game that not only nearly filled the 54,000-seat stadium, but which also brought a crowd of 85 writers and two dozen broadcasters.

Mickey Lolich, Aurelio Rodriguez, Al Kaline. All were superstars Monday.

The biggest goat? Boston's usually super baserunner, Luis Aparicio, who fell down rounding third base during a third-inning rally to seriously hurt the Sox chances.

Lolich struck out 15—just one short of his Tiger record—and ran his season mark to 22-14. He has four complete game triumphs over Boston.

Kaline lashed out three hits to give him 20 safeties in his last 40 at bats and raised his average to .310. One of the hits was a first inning homer off John Curtis—his third homer in three games.

Rodriguez drove in three runs with a homer and two singles. "They're so up now. I don't know if they're psyched, but they're primed," said Tiger Manager Billy Martin.

"He's a rare type pitcher," said Martin in praise of Lolich, the rubber-armed southpaw who rides a motorcycle to relax before a big game.

"He's his own pitching coach within. He adjusts in himself and changes pitches when he needs too."

Lolich's big strikeout pitch was a slider and he said he decided to use it more, "because the other night I gave up three home runs against the Yankees on fastballs. I thought back and realized all the home runs I've given up have been on fast balls—except one with a slider. Tonight I said I'd work on a slider in the bullpen. I did. And it worked."

Kaline said, "I feel terrific. I'm tired. I'm sapped. I'm mentally tired. But I never felt so good in my life."

"For some reason, I don't know what, I've been able to really get myself up in situations like this."

"Today I played like all season," said Rodriguez, the sharp-fielding Mexican third baseman. "I wasn't nervous. When you get excited you make a lot of mistakes."

"I had to wait around second base to make sure that the ball wouldn't be caught and then I turned on the speed," Aparicio said of his fall. "Then I started to round third, but hit the bag on top. I stumbled and then tried to keep going. Instead, I slipped on the grass and had to scramble back to the bag."

The fans began roaring early as Lolich, 22-14, struck out Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli with two runners on base in the first inning. In the bottom of the inning, Al Kaline homered off rookie John Curtis, 11-8, his 10th of the season and third in three days.

Kaline has a 10-game hitting streak, going 20-for-40 to raise his average to .319 in his 20th season.

Rodriguez' homer, his second in two games, came in the fifth. Then in the sixth, Kaline opened with a single, moved up on Duke Sims' sacrifice and scored on Rodriguez' single.

The Tigers picked up their final run in the eighth when Kaline opened with his third hit, a single. Sims bunted, but when catcher Carlton Fisk threw wildly, Kaline reached third and Sims first on the error. Reliever Bob Veale got the next two outs but Rodriguez delivered another single against Bob Bolin for the Tigers' wrapup run.

Boston scored its run in the third, but the Red Sox were deprived of a bigger inning when Luis Aparicio fell down rounding third base. Tommy Harper had singled and taken third on Aparicio's single, before scoring on a 420-foot double by Carl Yastrzemski.

On Yaz' hit, Aparicio slipped rounding third and had to hustle back, only to find Yastrzemski a couple of feet from third. Yaz was subsequently tagged out and Smith ended the threat by taking a third strike.

Red Sox ace Luis Tiant, 15-5, is scheduled to pitch Tuesday night's game against left-hander Woody Fryman, 9-3.

Expert Talks About Cats —
The Cougar

Casper, Wyo. (AP) — A mountain lion expert from central Idaho has exploded some myths about the cats in a Casper meeting. He also said Wyoming's cougars have virtually disappeared.

Dr. Maurice Hornocker said that the big cats are almost gone from Wyoming and Yellowstone National Park, after being hunted extensively in the early part of the century.

Hornocker has been studying the big cats in central Idaho since 1964. His pictures of the cats have appeared in national magazines.

He said the animals "don't scream. They whistle, or make noises like any ordinary house cat." He said the only difference in the sound is that the cougars "are much louder."

He called the cats important to ecology, since they are a major control on the elk and deer population. He said they take "mostly the old, the lame or crippled, or the very young."

He explained that their population is self regulating and depends on the food supply.

Senators Vote
For Relieving
GIs From KP

Washington (UPI) — The
Senate voted 69 to 11 Monday to relieve GIs from kitchen police — a dreaded, dirty and tiresome task American enlisted men have hated since the Revolutionary War.

The vote locked into this year's Defense Department budget bill $60 million to turn KP duty over to civilians.

"Every housewife does KP
three times a day," said Sen.
William Proxmire, D-Wis., who sought to erase the money from the bill. "Most husbands do KP. Most senators do KP, including this one."

"What kind of nabby-pamby military are we going to have when you don't have to get your hands dirty?"

Answered Sen. Lloyd
Bentsen, D-Tex.: "We want professional soldiers. We're not interested in housemaid's knee and dishpan hands."

The money was included in the $74.6 billion Pentagon appropriations bill, the biggest money measure to come before Congress this year.

Small Boy Hurt
In Auto Mishap

AA Lincoln boy was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Lincoln General Hospital with injuries he received in a car-pedestrian accident on 27th between Q and R Monday evening, according to police officer Lyle Roberts.

Roberts said Kevin Hicks, 1, son of Rosie Hicks, of 2745
Q, suffered a concussion when he walked into the side of a car driven by Leonard Krenk, 66, of 4330 J.
